Memo to You

One Moment, Please

Here is this week's Coral Gables Times, an old friend who's had her face lifted.

—But immediately noticeable is the different look of the paper. This is because we have a new type face and a new printer, The Miami Herald.

The nameplate of the paper has been redesigned. The words "Coral Gables" are now emphasized as they should be. The Gables is our only reason for existence.

We've also added to the nameplate one of the city's most distinguishing landmarks, the town hall, and noted the slogan, "The City Beautiful."

But like any old friend, it's not outward appearance that counts so much as what's inside. Inside we hope you'll find us more to your liking than ever before.

You'll find more pictures of Gables people and what they're doing. More news about our townspeople is there.

In this issue alone there are a half dozen feature stories about neighbors, friends, even strangers — all of them people who help make our town what it is.

Today and hereafter, you'll find the editorial page in the same place each issue, page 4. Local columnists have been added and you will find them on the editorial page. More reviews of local cultural activity will be carried.

Also today, we initiate two more new features, these of a photographic nature.

One is Beauty in the Gables, a candid shot of a pretty girl who works here. The other is How the Gables Lives, a photo essay in the casual approach of Gablettes.

We hope you like it. For a newspaper is not really the editor's, but his readers'.

Dry Up

All retail liquor stores and restaurants serving beer and wine will be closed between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday April 11, election day, according to Assistant Chief D. E. Edwards.

Politics All Over Tuesday

By MAURICE LABELLE

One of the most heavily-contested election in years will come to a climax Tuesday when the people of Coral Gables go to the polls to pick a new mayor and four commissioners.

Only an upset would prevent Commissioner Robert L. Searle from becoming Mayor Searle on April 12 when the results are certified.

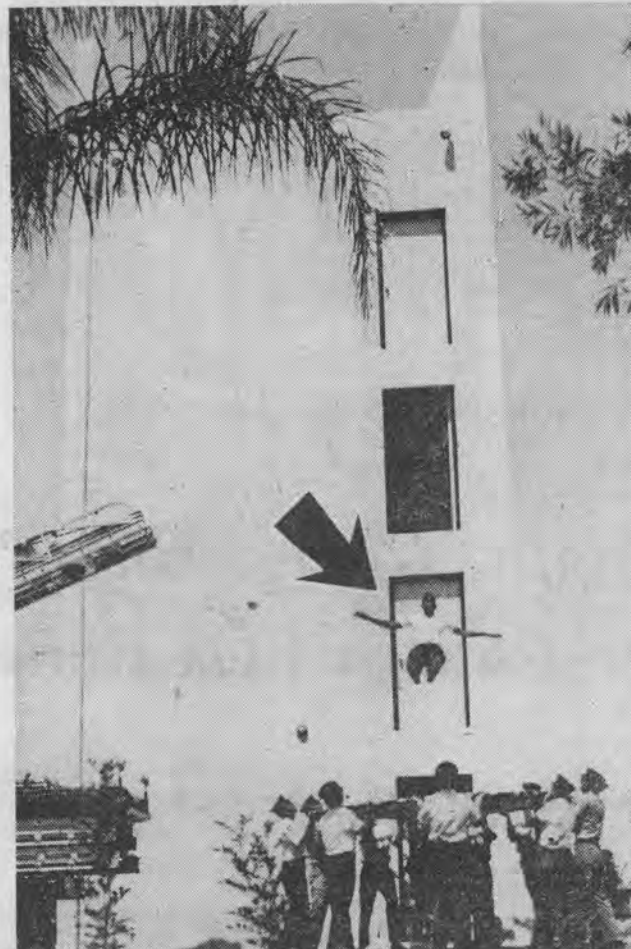

Searle is unopposed, but an unofficial write-in campaign has been waged for Commissioner Joe Murphy.

Murphy and 10 others are vying for the four City Commission seats being vacated. Only one member is a hold-over.

CANDIDATES LISTED

The other candidates are Bernard B. Waksler, J. L.

(See Election Page 33)

NOT LEAPING WITH JOY, but a leap that may save his life later is Coral Gables Fireman Edward R. Roy. The firefighters are using the five-story tower which is part of the new half-million dollar installation scheduled to be opened Saturday. This and many other facts of fire fighting facilities at the South Dixie Highway station will be seen by the public Saturday following opening ceremonies at 10 a.m.

Commission Turns Down Rezone Bid

By MAURICE LABELLE

A move to re-zone part of the controversial "Burdine's" tract off South Dixie Highway failed Tuesday when the City Commission voted unanimously to deny the proposed changes.

More than 30 persons appeared to oppose the changes to the approximately 20-acre tract. It is bordered by South Dixie Highway, Hardee Road and Maynada.

"If its not the best thing to do, then let's drop it," C. Allen Brown, agent for the owners, told the Commission after the opposition showed itself.

Brown, who has worked with the city, the owners and nearby property owners in setting up buffers between business and residential areas for a year, told the Commission that the matter should be turned over to a planner.

"We tried to do the best job," Brown said.

The land had been proposed for a Burdine's shopping center back in 1955, but the Florida Supreme Court reversed the city's approval.

"I think it advisable to inform you that this Commission has become skilled in recognizing the will of the people," Mayor John M. Montgomery told Brown.

Opponents of the plan complained to the Commission two weeks ago that they had not been notified of latest developments in presenting the plan before the Commission. The Commission voted to hold another public hearing.

Brown indicated Tuesday that Burdine's is selling its portion of the land. The rest is owned by Brovay Corp. and Edward J. and Arthur McBride.

The Retail Merchants Association Monday discussed taking a stand on the controversy, but adopted a hands off policy.

Tale of Milwaukee Brewer

Here's What Mr. G Did When Prohibition Hit

By ROLFE NEILL

What do you do with a brewery when Prohibition suddenly comes?

Frank M. Gabel can tell you. He was running one of the nation's larger ones in Milwaukee on that day in 1919 when the nation went dry.

Things are less tense for the former businessman now.

He and Mrs. (Olga) Gabel live at 6300 Caballero Blvd., where they built a handsome home along the canal next to University Court Motel.

"I was upstairs reading about how to live to be 100," Gabel said on meeting him on a recent morning.

"I will be 85 on my next birthday.

"I never took a drink until I was 60. That's the truth. The doctor advised me to then; settle the stomach you know."

What did the article say about living to be 100?

"Let God do some of the worrying for you. Trust in Him."

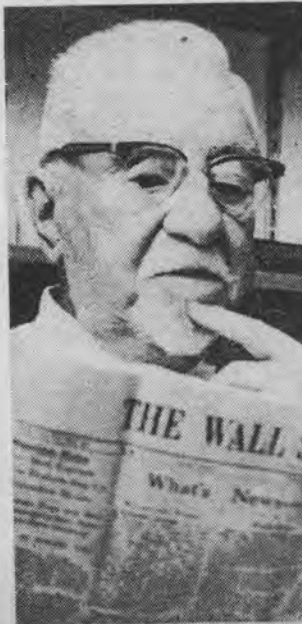

Gabel invited us into the living room. He lit a filter tip cigarette, resisted the urge to have a go at gin rummy (his favorite pastime), and began to talk about his days with Blatz Brewing Co.

"When Prohibition came in 1919 we didn't know what we were going to do. There were some 1,800 breweries operating.

"When beer came back in 1932 the number was down to under 500, so you can see what I'm talking about.

"We went into bottling soft drinks. We sold tobacco and cigars. We got into any line that we could sell our dealers.

"One thing I want to mention about all this is that during the whole time we never borrowed a dollar . . . But to get back to the story.

"A man sold us on the idea of a grape syrup he had patented. We tried it and made a success with that as a soft drink.

"A candy man by the name of Morton said he thought he could make a good grape candy out of the syrup so we gave him a quart.

My God, the stuff was awful! The girls in the office said you couldn't even eat it.

"Morton came back and said he thought he could make it into chewing gum. He asked for another quart of syrup.

"The grape gum went like wildfire. We finally had to buy two factories of our own to help supply the demand.

"One person chewing the stuff could smell up a whole streetcar!

"Along in 1929 when the first pure food and drug enforcement came we had to take the picture of the Concord grapes off the soft drink. Sales stayed up.

"That didn't satisfy 'em.

"Next we had to add the word 'imitation' over grape. Sales still weren't bothered.

"Then we had to make the word 'imitation' as big as 'grape'.

"Sales nose dived. People thought they might get poisoned. Mothers wouldn't give it to their children.

Then it hit gum. First the word 'imitation' in small let-

'Day And Night, Going, Going' Is Way New Church Gets Built

By RAYMOND LANG

What does it take to build a church?

That question was put the other day to Dr. Frank A. Mathes. He is pastor of Granada Presbyterian, one of the Gables' fastest-growing churches.

"It takes faith," Dr. Mathes paused for emphasis and added, "Prayer — sacrifice — and hard work."

There's still the sound of Alabama in the minister's voice. He had a church at Birmingham before coming here.

Churchgoers Now

"Way back when this spot (Granada Boulevard and Bird Road) was chosen, there was a great deal of objection by residents to the church. In fact, took their case to the City Commission.

"However, the people in the neighborhood began coming to the church.

"And one of the opposition leaders is now chairman of the Building Committee. He's working hard and making many sacrifices to help build this church."

The arguments before the City Commission took place in the late '40's. Finally, the city gave the go ahead.

Ground was broken in June, 1950, for the first unit.

"Hall," it said on the architect's drawing. But to church members it was a kitchen, nursery, Sunday School and sanctuary.

The first congregation of 36 people has grown in size to 950 members.

Second Unit

Dr. Mathes became pastor in January, 1958. Three months later, the church completed its second unit, a building for the junior department.

On March 27, 1961, the Monday after Palm Sunday, the church dedicated the third unit. It is an air-conditioned, $450,000 sanctuary capable of seating 1,000 people.

In several years, said Dr. Mathes, there will be another addition to the sanctuary.

"It's hard work and it's exacting," he said of the task of making a church grow.

"We're in a transition period. We're growing from a small church to a big church. And it's extremely strenuous.

South Miami Grants Pair Licenses To Sell Liquor

By EDWIN KNIGHT
Correspondent

City of South Miami, which already has a number of bars and liquor dispensing establishments, granted licenses for two more package stores Tuesday night.

Because of a substantial population increase, according to the 1960 census, the city handed licenses to two applicants recommended by the State of Florida.

12 APPLIED

Approximately 12 persons had made applications for the coveted licenses. The applications were screened by state officials and the recommendation made to South Miami Council.

Receiving the licenses were William W. Segal, owner of the Crossroads Building, who will open South Miami Liquor Store at 5730 Sunset Dr., and Elsie E. Jacobs, who will open a package store at 4040 Red Road.

POPULATION GOVERNS

The licenses were granted according to state statutes stipulating that liquor establishments are permissible according to population figures.

South Miami Council also granted two beer and wine licenses for consumption off the premises.

The licenses went to M & M Grocery, 6551 SW 59th Pl., and a U-Tote-M grocery store, 6420 SW 62nd Ave.

Scott and Cole Help CG Win

Gables' Al Scott took individual honors in the 14-15-year division in Miami's first invitational track competition for boys at Moore Park.

Scott won the 75 yard dash and the 100 yard dash. He placed second in the broad jump and anchored the 4th place Gables relay team.

Harold Cole placed second in the 50 yard dash for boys 12-13 and finished third in the 75-yard dash.

Other entries for Gables Recreation were Andy Tully, Ivan Lopez, Robert Stinson, Phil Compton, Ron Osbrach, Steve Reiremund and Jeff Leigh.

Firemen Say: 'Come On Over'

Coral Gables' $450,000 ultra modern fire station will be opened officially at 10 a.m. Saturday.

From then until 4 p.m., the public will tour facilities and hear firemen tell about their new home.

Addition of cost of equipment will boost the final total to approximately a half million dollars. And more than $60,000 is being added to the payroll.

Said Fire Chief Paul Matheson of his big new structure: "We'll be able to better serve the industrial and Riviera high-value section."

SAVE TIME

From the South Dixie Highway-Riviera Drive location, the department will be able to shave minutes off any run below the railroad tracks. The University of Miami main campus also will have better protection.

Ten men will man the new station round-the-clock. Another 10 will remain at the Salzedo-Aragon station.

Approximately half the cost of the 218-foot long facility—$252,000—went into the thin strip of land paralleling South Dixie Highway and the railroad tracks.

BUILDING $198,000

The building itself, constructed by M. R. Harrison, cost $198,000. It was designed by Gables Architect O. K. Houston Jr.

Facilities include a five-story training tower and a three-story hose-drying tower. A ladder company and an engine company will be accommodated initially.

Complete living facilities are incorporated within the massive-looking building. These include dormitories, locker rooms, showers, kitchen, classrooms and maintenance shop.

The new site will serve as a training center for the entire Gables Fire Department.

Doctors, Dentists Launch 'Diplomatic Experiment'

A group of 20 area doctors and dentists, led by Dr. Robert L. Cherry of Coral Gables, left Wednesday for Cartagena, Colombia, to launch an experiment in grass roots diplomacy.

The group left carrying 97,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine and other drugs and plan to spend two days in Cartagena conducting lectures and clinics.

"The main reason we are going down," said Dr. Cherry, "is to cement better relations and spread democracy."

Began In November

It all began last November when Dr. Cherry and a group of Gableites visited Cartagena as members of the People to People delegation from Coral Gables.

While there, the medical men in the group were made aware of the acute need for medical and dental knowledge in that country.

They also became aware of the need for drugs.

Did Something

That knowledge lingered in the minds of the medical men when they returned. And they did something about it.

Short wave communication was established between Dr. Cherry through Dr. J. Reese Clawson, a ham radio operator, and Dr. Rafael Franco in Cartagena.

Arrangements were made between Cartagena medical people and the local doctors to fly down this week and bring along medical supplies donated by some of the nation's drug firms.

Translators Provided

While there, each of the 20 doctors and dentists will have a translator and several hosts.

Surgeons have volunteered their services during the two-day stay there and Dr. Cherry indicated that some surgery may be performed.

"We have offered to do any major dental or medical work in or out of a hospital," Dr. Cherry said.

Other Countries

"We hope to be invited to other South Central American countries," he added.

The medical men are scheduled to stop in Panama before returning to Coral Gables Sunday.

Coral Gables dentists in the group are, Dr. Cherry, 900 Hardee Rd.; Dr. Homer V. Briggles, 4410 University Dr.; Dr. Louis F. Jourdain, 12600 Rolling Rd.; Dr. J. R. Taylor, 809 Ferdinand; and Dr. Kenneth C. Wittich, 140 Almeria.

The Gables physicians are Dr. W. L. Wagener Jr., 1220 Ponce de Leon Blvd. and Dr. M. A. Gozalez, 4512 San Amaro Dr.

Ben Nonkin Elected As Commander

Ben Nonkin of 4410 Riviera Drive has been elected to succeed Ainslee R. Ferdie as commander of the Murray Solomon Post No. 243 Jewish War Veterans of Coral Gables.

He presently is serving as senior vice commander. Ainslee Ferdie will serve as Judge Advocate in addition to his duties as trustee of the Department of Florida.

Other officers elected are Michael Schechter, senior vice-commander; Selma Tucker Jr. vice-commander; Jerry Simms, quartermaster; Leo Ciment, chaplain; Solly Wildstein, officer of the day; and Harry Nathanson, three year trustee.

Robert Faloan To Edit, Manage Pompano Paper

Robert (Rube) Faloan, former publisher of The Rivera Times, will become editor and general manager of the Pompano Town News April 24.

FALOAN

Faloan, who published the forerunner to The Times before it was purchased by the Knight interests, said Wednesday that the family will move to Pompano Beach later.

The Penn State journalism graduate is serving as executive secretary of the Miami Rotary Club.

Faloan came to Coral Gables in 1953 from Oakridge, Tenn., where he was assistant publisher of the daily Oak Ridger.

A Word About Next Week's Election

It is no less an editor's function to comment on news than to gather it. A vigorous editorial column, conducted fairly but bristling with opinion, is the backbone of any newspaper.

So it is with sadness that we say "pass" when asked whom we shall support in the race for City Commissioner.

There is no lack of candidates, 11, nor scarceness of issues, Douglas Gate, high rise buildings, tax structure, zoning enforcement and the like.

Why, then, withhold comment?

The editor of this newspaper has lived in the community but three weeks. It would be presumptuous to ask a reader to consider opinions which have had so little time to yeast. It would be hazardous to arrive at conclusions with so brief an acquaintanceship with the subjects.

There is only one thing worse than having no opinion and that is to have an ill-informed one. Regretfully, we sit this one out.

Gnashing of Teeth

Considerable anguish was caused several months ago by an editorial on this page which said that the city's Chamber of Commerce was in danger of getting car-buncles from sitting on its haunches.

Despite all the gnashing of teeth that followed the appearance of the editorial, in quieter moments it seemed to be agreed that, indeed, the charge was true.

All of this is by way of prelude to what we have to say today.

It was rewarding to read the headline in last week's Times, "Chamber Looking for Work to Do." Not only is the chamber looking for work to do, it has itemized suggested projects and is asking members to choose them in order of importance.

The truth is that a community reflects the type of chamber leadership that it has. We are happy to note the constructive program being formulated and shall support it. Below we make a suggestion.

Thank You, Gulf

Gulf Oil Co. is accustomed to hunting for what it wants.

We don't know how long it searched before deciding to move its oil exploration headquarters from New York to Coral Gables but beyond whatever favors it may be doing itself it is doing two major things for the Gables.

First, it brings a desirable industry. Its employees, by nature of their backgrounds, are people with more than average interest in affairs about them.

Secondly, Gulf's arrival should suggest to us what is our best hope for increased business growth. This is the growth to be had with headquarters-type operations. There are no nagging industrial problems and the payroll is the highest to be had.

Is it not wise for the city to draw a bead on more enterprises of this nature? Next week we shall comment on the matter further. Meanwhile, welcome to Gulf.

Looking Backward With The Times

The Children's Hour

Girls Lift This Play

The children were the best thing in Monday night's production by Ruth E. Foreman of "The Children's Hour" at Studio M Playhouse.

So long as Ann Marie Ciani, Dottie Rawlings, Jackie Scelza, Cathy Brooks, Maggie Gordon and Kathy Mikesell were on the stage they established a vital element in the strange play and made things move along.

But when they were absent the action at times tended to drag. Miss Foreman as producer and director is to be felicitated for her careful selection of these six young misses.

Judi Botwick as the young thing whose fibbing and faking dynamites the "Wright-Dobie school for girls," disrupts her doctor, bewilders her grandmother, and tears her teachers apart, had the leading role and fattest part. She received an extra curtain call at the end.

Not far behind her in a comparatively minor part was Kathy Mikesell, the dumb cluck who packed a hidden punch.

Of the older women, Lee Scully as one of the teaching partners gave her role some convincing touches, but the playwright gave her a forced and unconvincing pistol shot in the last act.

When "The Children's Hour" was first presented in New York some years ago it was a sensation, we are told, because of its theme of an inordinate affection between women. But that theme seems less tragic now, due perhaps to a more sophisticated viewpoint, and in consequence some of the edge was taken off the cutting portion of the play.

The play is an unusual one owing to its domination by women. It was written by a woman, directed by a woman, and enacted almost wholly by women.

The only man in the cast was a doctor played on Arnold Warren, who in private life is an all-night disk jockey on WKAT. In the play he is like a rubber ball being batted around by feminine rackets, but he played his part with smoothness.

The staging and sets were well conceived and carried out. Studio M is capable of doing big things for Coral Gables audiences.—Phillips Russell.

The reviewer is a retired professor of creative writing at the University of North Carolina and the author of several books, including a biography of Thomas Jefferson.

City living is hard even on cows, says dairyman Jerry Dressel.

Dressel recently moved his herd from Miami north to greener and quieter pastures. The result, he says, is about ¼ th's gallon of milk more per cow each day.

"I don't know if it's better feed, no jet noises or what, but we're getting more production," says Dressel.

Incidentally, all 750 cows in the herd are milked by only two men with the aid of electrical milkers. Ex-farm boys can appreciate that feat.

Funeral service was held Sunday at Combs Funeral Home, Coral Gables, for Mrs. Roberta Futterbau, 87, who died Friday.

She came here 30 years ago from Louisville, Ky., where final rites and burial will take place. She leaves a nephew, Otto Erasmus, 35 Sunrise Ave., Coral Gables.

Havana Doctor Dies In Gables

An internationally known Havana physician died Tuesday.

New Oath Of Loyalty For Boards

Members of boards appointed by the Coral Gables City Commission will have to sign a loyalty oath.

The oath, already required of employees, obliges board appointees to state their allegiance to the state and nation. Other provisions of the oath require:

- Support of the U.S. and state constitution.
- Denial of membership in the Communist Party.
- Statement that member has not and will not lend aid, support, advice, counsel or influence to the Communist Party.
- Disbelief in violent or forceful overthrow of state or U.S. government.
- Statement that the member does not belong to any organization or party which believes in or teaches, directly or indirectly, the overthrow of the U.S. or state government by force or violence.

Steve Udell's Bar Mitzvah Is Saturday

Stephen Udell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Udell, 4301 Emerson Rd., will be Bar Mitzvah at the Temple Judea, Saturday.

The services will be conducted by Rabbi Morris A. Skop, and Cantor Herman K. Gottlieb at 10:30 a.m.

Stephen is an eighth grade student at Ponce de Leon Junior High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Udell will be hosts at the Kiddush-Sanctification immediately following the services.

day while visiting at the home of a friend, Dr. Carlos P. Lamar, 1800 Country Club Prado.

Rosary service will be held for Dr. Julio Francisco Schutte, 55, at 8 p.m. today (Thursday) in Philbrick's Coral Gables Chapel.

Requiem high mass will be held 9:30 a.m., Friday at The Church of the Little Flower with burial at Graceland Memorial Park.

Mrs. Rogers, 72, On Good Friday

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p.m. at Peden Funeral Home, 8231 Bird Rd., for Mrs. Avis Rogers, 72, of 7566 S. Waterway Dr., Coral Gables, who died Friday.

She leaves her husband, and one son, Peter. She came here five years ago from Truro, Mass., where final rites and burial will take place.

Vernon Eason's Last Rites Held

Last rites were held Wednesday at Van Orsdel's Coral Gables Chapel for Vernon C. Eason, 72, of 4900 Sunset Dr., who died March 27th.

The Rev. Morris McCastlain, minister at the Coral Gables First Methodist Church, officiated at the 11 a.m. service and interment was in Woodlawn Park Cemetery.

Mr. Eason was a pioneer, coming to Miami in 1910 from Quitman, Ga. He was in the wholesale produce business.

He leaves his wife, Virginia, a daughter, Mrs. George W. Martin, a son Vernon Jr. all of Miami and four grandchildren.

United Nations Film Scheduled

"Power Among Men," a feature length color film produced by the United Nations Film Board, will be presented for the first time in Miami at the Miami Friends Meeting, 1185 Sunset Road, at 8 p.m. Friday.

The film explores the major problems of our postwar era; rebuilding after war, raising standards of living, industrial expansion, and peaceful use of atomic power.

Settings for the film include Italy after World War II, agricultural improvement in Haiti, and the construction of hydroelectric plants in British Columbia.

Who Must Be Licensed To Work?

Municipal Judge Charles Spooner will have to "play it by ear" on the occupational license controversy.

The City Commission heard Prosecutor William Burton relate Tuesday the difficulty in handling cases of persons doing business without a license. He asked for a statement of policy from the Commission.

"Everybody should have a license," said City Manager L.W. Robinson Jr.

Mayor John M. Montgomery related how the Commission had tussled with the problem some months ago and came up with a policy of requiring all persons doing business in the city to acquire an occupational license.

But Burton added another factor: firms operating in Coral Gables through a telephone answering service.

These, Burton explained, fall into two categories, those who have the answering service only and those who also have a directory listing in the building occupied by the answering service.

Said the Commission to Burton: Let the judge decide the fate of these name dropping firms who fail to obtain licenses.

Giblin Suit Will Go To Florida Supreme Court

The Florida Supreme Court has been asked to hear the Coral Gables traffic case of Mrs. Vincent C. Giblin as "a matter of great public interest affecting all municipalities in the state."

A $34,000 damage award to Mrs. Giblin by a Circuit Court jury last year was recently reversed by the District Court of Appeals.

The latest move was filed by attorney Sam Daniels.

City Attorney Ted Semple gave the move little chance of success last week.

"The Supreme Court won't hear it," Semple said.

Mrs. Giblin was arrested for speeding Jan. 23, 1959 on Blue Road near her home. Her husband, a former circuit Court judge, was charged with obstructing and interfering with a police officer in the same incident.

Several suits were filed by Giblin and his attorneys in an attempt to keep from appearing in court and Mrs. Giblin filed a damage suit against the city.

Church Renamed

Red Road Baptist Chapel, which relocated to Blue Lake School last fall, is nearly ready to start building its own structure at 97th Ave. and 64-66th St.

Blueprints are in the final stages of preparation.

Because of the relocation the congregation has chosen a new name, The Gateway Chapel of the University Baptist Church.

'Twas a Corking Good Day In the Stock Market, Sir

The stock market's closing quotes of IBM 695 and Standard Oil (NJ) 46 1/4 had hardly cleared the board Monday before champagne corks began popping on LeJeune Road.

No investors were celebrating a killing in the market that day.

Instead, the city's newest business was showing itself off to an invited public.

STOCK BROKERAGE

The host: Johnson, Lane, Space & Co., stock brokers.

The place: 2423 LeJeune Road, just off Miracle Mile and almost within ticker tape's throw of three of the firm's half dozen competitors.

From the merriment in progress when we arrived at 6 6 o'clock, it was evident that the champagne was holding out. We set ourselves on the trail of Philip R. Anderson, manager, and until recently with a competing firm in the Gables.

SPIED BLONDE

Anderson proved to be elusive, darting in and out of the crowd of men and women. Noting a lithe, lonesome blonde over by the sandwich tray we headed that direction.

The blonde turned out to be Miss Carolyn Whitney, and a newspaper gal of sorts. She recently went to work for The Wall Street Journal in Miami as a circulation booster.

"I love it," she said convincingly. "What do you do?"

MOTHER AT UM

Among other information gathered from Miss Whitney was the fact that her mother is secretary to President Pearson at the University and that Miss Whitney lives in Coconut Grove.

While she reached for a dainty sandwich we overheard the fellow behind us ask another lady, "Who are you?"

"I'm Lil, from Hentz, across the way."

"What are you doing here?"

'OUT OF CURIOSITY'

"To tell you the truth I'm here out of curiosity, since we're competitors."

Miss Whitney put down her empty champagne cup.

"You know, women are more interested in business today than ever before. A lot of them read the Journal. Of course it's fun to play with your husband's money."

After exchanging subscriptions with Miss Whitney, ($24 for the Journal, $3 for the Times), we moved toward Anderson again.

"Tired?"

I'VE GOT KIDS'

"Not from this particularly," replied Johnson, Lane & Space's youthful manager. "I've got kids who get me up at six o'clock in the morning."

"Here's a booklet that will tell you about our firm; I've got to meet some people."

The handsome ceramic clock pointed 6:30 and the invitation said nothing about dinner so we left.—RN.

DANCE SET

"An Around-the-World Open House" young adults dance will be presented by the Shashona-Aviva Junior Hadassah at the UM Hillel House Sunday, April 16, at 8 p.m.

MISS MARGARET E. DUNN, Dade County Junior College instructor in business education, has been awarded a plaque of merit for her contribution to educational TV in originating, preparing and teaching on TV the first successful shorthand stenographic course ever offered. She lives at 1124 Palermo Ave., Coral Gables.

City Plans To Beautify Giralda Ave.

Beautification of a one-block section of Giralda between Ponce de Leon Blvd. and Galiano was approved unanimously by the City Commission Tuesday.

Estimated cost to the taxpayers is $14,220 and $6,161 to property owners. Beautification will be along the lines adopted for Ponce de Leon Blvd.

Support and opposition to the project was about evenly divided at Tuesday's meeting.

Ed Rogers, former city commissioner who recently remodeled the old post office building for the Gulf Oil Corp., initiated the project.

"I think its time we got started on isde streets," Rogers said.

Burglars entered the Pelaez home through a bathroom window.

Two other breaks were reported to police that day.

Harry Bolwick, of 525 Vittorio, reported the loss of a $700 stole, assorted jewelry, suitcase and clothing from his home.

Harry Bernher, of 1100 Castile, reported the loss of jewelry, a revolver, radio and $150 in cash.

New Force In Gables Politics

By MAURICE LABELLE

A new political force is coming into play during the current City Commission campaign in Coral Gables.

It is not a political party. It is not a partisan group. It represents no individual or organization. It is not dedicated to any philosophy.

Ridiculous?

Some politicians and political aspirants don't think so.

What is this "non-political" political force?

It is the offshoot of the "Action Course in Practical Politics" sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

While the course itself is non-partisan, its recent graduates have and are branching out and becoming active in various phases of political life.

Winston W. Wynne, former

Coral Gables City commissioner and graduate, is now a Metro commissioner.

George M. Wilson is a candidate for the City Commission and Frank (Mort) Guilford and William Kerdyk, are campaigning for him.

Robert M. Brake is active in Commissioner Joe Murphy's campaign for re-election to the commission.

Gerard R. Pucci is working for Henry G. Simmonite in his bid for a Commission seat and is instructing a class at the University of Miami.

Carl Turkington is president of the Coral Gables Civic Association, a recently created organization which is very active in the current political.

Miss Lila Dickerson is secretary for the same organization.

Other graduates have helped screen candidates and clarify the issues.

The course was developed a couple of years ago by the U.S. Chamber in response to requests by businessmen all over America. They sought to be more effective in politics and to make their representatives more responsive to their needs.

In time, however, the scope of the program broadened until women's organization church groups, associations political (Democratic and Republican), adult education, professional and Community groups swelled the ranks.

Here in Coral Gables, the course is under the sponsorship of the Government Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

How Bill Wrote Up $300

Here is the prize-winning essay of William T. Haverfield II in the Coral Gables Civitan Club's essay contest on "How to Prepare Youth for a More Effective Citizenship." Bill won $300. Other winners are listed elsewhere on this page.

By W. T. HAVERFIELD II

Citizenship is a term which cannot be specifically defined, for citizenship is a deep and many-sided subject.

Citizenship contains many intangible ingredients, and for this reason one cannot speak of citizenship as one quality, but must instead admit that it is a synthesis, a final product, that is obtained from the combination of many desired qualities.

Of all those ingredients necessary to mold an effective citizen, perhaps the most important is a working set of standards. One bases all opinions, all actions, all decisions, according to the dictates of one's set of standards.

HELP YOUTH

For this reason it is most appropriate that emphasis be placed upon the embodying of high standards within the youth of our country. For the most part the practical standards, or those standards by which we rule our everyday decisions and actions, are acquired through observation, while one is still quite young, of the actions of one's parents.

Adults must then strive at all times to set a sterling example at least for the good of impressionable youth, if not for the good of the adults themselves.

The adults must also strive to instill in the youth of our country, through any means possible, a fine set of idealistic standards, or standards for which youth can aim . . . standards which they may not be able to reach at all times, but which will serve as goals for near-perfect living.

LAY FOUNDATION

Only after youth has acquired a set of standards with which to work can he hope to master those other qualities which lead to effective citizenship. Only after youth has secured a sturdy foundation can he continue with his superstructure and finish with a complete and perfect end product.

One of the qualities or attributes which molds the complete citizen is the power to think clearly and objectively.

If youth can be taught to think critically, to think for himself, then a definite service has been rendered, and the result—a thinking citizen, one who is truly and genuinely interested in all affairs, one who weighs all evidence, all pertinent fact, and then arrives at an objective conclusion, one who does not allow others to tell him what to think, what to do, how to vote, or how to act—strengthens our country.

PRODUCT SO FAR

The product so far is a citizen who knows how to act, what to do, in accordance with his set of standards, which acts as his set of laws to determine his decisions.

This citizen also has that valuable quality which is called the power to think clearly and objectively. These qualities constitute the core of the complete citizen.

However, other qualities are necessary to complete the development of an effective citizen. An effective citizen possesses a deep sense of responsibility and a will to serve others.

A sense of responsibility is the ability to recognize one's obligations and one's duties; not only to recognize them but also to do something about them.

WILL TO SERVE

An effective citizen most definitely must be a man of action, a man of action with the will to serve others unselfishly, and in so doing to strengthen our country and the cause of democracy.

A citizen with the before-mentioned qualities is certainly an effective citizen, but there is one more quality which is necessary for the perfect citizen. This quality, this frosting for the perfect cake, is consideration for others—consideration so lacking today, yet so necessary.

Now that the composition of the perfect citizen is known, the problem is how to teach youth, how to instill in youth, standards, the ability to think objectively, a sense of responsibility, the will to serve others,

McCorquodale and Tashman Win 2nd, 3rd Places at Gables High

Fifteen high school seniors received awards for winning the second annual Coral Gables Civitan Club's citizenship essay contest Tuesday evening.

There were five winners from each of three high schools, Coral Gables, Southwest and Christopher Columbus. There were 725 entries.

Coral Gables winners were first place, William T. Haverfield II; second, Donald S. McCorquodale Jr.; third, Leonard Charles Tashman; honorable mention awards, Joel Eaton first, Harriet Sue Charmin; and Alex Galenes.

Southwest winners were second, Helene Kichelski; third, Marsha Schakelford; honorable mention, William Oswald and Elizabeth Kraemer.

Christopher Columbus winners were first, Eugene W. Lemoine; second, David Gentry; third, Joseph Dennison; honorable mention, Dennis Sullivan and Michael Broyard.

First prize winners received a $100 U.S. Government Savings Bond; second place winners received a $75 bond and third place winners received a $25 bond.

The five winning essays from each school are automatically submitted for consideration for district and international awards. The names of the winners for the international contest will be announced from the floor of the International Convention in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, June 18-21, 1961.

Judges were Ira Willard, president of the City National Bank of Coral Gables; Rolfe Neill, editor of the Coral Gables Times; and George Thrope, president of WVCB of Coral Gables.

Teachers supervising the contest in their respective schools were Miss Evelyn Massey of Coral Gables, Miss Crabree of Southwest and Brother Edward of Christopher Columbus.

OPENING TUESDAY NIGHT is "Angel Street," a play given by Coral Gables Country Club Theater Group. Edna Knight is directing. Left to right of the cast are Iris Rautenberg, Michael Sandler and Elaine Taylor. Curtain time is 8:45 p.m. for the show on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Meter Plans Under Study

A merchant plan designed to bring peace on the troubled parking meter front is under study by the Traffic and Parking Committee of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce.

"We've got 11 plans cooking," Al Jacobson, the committee chairman says.

Jacobson said that a proposal made before the City Commission last week by Ed Berman jumped the gun on the study. Berman is a member of the committee.

Berman proposed de-metering at least two main downtown lots and replacing the meters with attendants.

Many facets of the plan remain unresolved, Jacobson said.

"It will do a world of good," Berman said of the proposal to eliminate meters. He saw an end to harassment of shoppers and creation of better atmosphere for shopping in the Gables.

Commissioner Robert Searle proposed, and the committee is studying, another plan. Under it, meter checkers drop a penny in meters having violations to give shoppers an extra 12 minutes before a ticket is issued.

The proposals presented by Berman and Searle were taken under advisement by the commission.

Daves, Ex-Gableite, Promoted By Bell

Donald B. Daves, once with the commercial department of Southern Bell Telephone Co. in the Gables and more recently at Little River, has been promoted again.

He was named division sales manager in the marketing department.

People Unit Here May Incorporate

A plan to incorporate the People to People committee is underway in Coral Gables.

Committee member Warren Blackmon appeared before the City Commission Tuesday to give details of the contemplated change.

The Commission indicated that they still wanted a hand in naming some of the committee members.

The People to People program was launched in 1958 by the city after the Eisenhower administration requested municipalities in the U.S. to participate in cultural exchanges with foreign nations.

Cartagena, Colombia, is sister city to Coral Gables in the program.

Dr. Kenneth Williams, president of the new Dade Junior College, will speak Saturday at the 10:45 a.m. meeting of the Miami Panhellenic Association at the home of Mrs. Melvin Harrison, 714 Calatrava Ave.

Dr. Williams will tell of plans for the college and review accomplishments.

Judo for Women

Quick Flip Banishes Thugs

By RAYMOND LANG

The prowler waited in the shadows. A woman was approaching.

The prowler lunged. But the woman, with a surprisingly deft flick of the wrists, caught his hand, twisted it and sent him tumbling to the ground.

This woman knew judo and it helped her in a time of need.

That's how Bruce Brown summed up the value of judo he will teach women starting Monday night at the Youth Center.

"The class will be geared to the woman's interest. We're going to cut-out all the throwing and get right down to simulated conditions as if she were being pursued.

"For example, she might be attacked from behind. I'll teach her how to react and render her attacker helpless.

"Some women might say 'I'm not that attractive. Well, it doesn't make any difference.'

"... As we know from the newspapers, it doesn't make any difference to a would-be attacker if the woman is 6 or 60.

What are the feelings of the women who have registered for the six judo classes, which will be held each Monday night from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.?

"It was my husband's idea," said Jane Schuler. He's a Miami Beach Policeman.

"He read the article about the judo class in the papers and thought it was an excellent idea for a woman to learn self-defense.

"I thought he was kidding. "My children can't believe

Assailant Hides In Bushes

I'm going to learn judo. "Mother, Oh, mother! you?"

The policeman's wife called her sister-in-law, Ann Schuler, to see if she'd attend the classes with her.

"I said I didn't know," said Ann, "I'd have to think about it. I went down — and found it very interesting.

"And it's good for me to get away as it is for any mother. Though it is an effort to get everything ready and get the children to bed so I can go to class."

Phone Company Promotes 2 Men

Four executive changes in Southern Bell Telephone Co. South Florida Division have been announced.

Allen C. Bowen was appointed Northern Miami District Manager for the firm at Little River, succeeding Donald B. Daves who becomes division sales manager in the marketing department.

Daves, in turn, replaces John J. Partin who joins the area office of the company.

Bowen was Division Commercial Engineer in Miami. Bowen joined Southern Bell in Mississippi in 1949. He and Mrs. Bowen and their four children reside at 19520 SW 127th Court.

Daves has been a district manager since 1959. Previous positions included Commercial Department posts at Memphis, Atlanta, Key West and Coral Gables. He lives at 7845 SW 19th St.

Our Water Deal Dead

Metro's proposal to buy Consumers Water Company and other General Waterworks subsidiaries for $7.1 million is dead.

Edwin Kellerman, new vice president and general manager, said so this week.

But like any deal, Kellerman said, it may be alive again tomorrow. Kellerman recently replaced H. E. Keating, who was transferred to New Rochelle, N.Y.

The Metro Commission killed the multi-million dollar deal early last month when no agreement could be reached with General Waterworks over a $2.5 million windfall that would have accrued to the company.

Metro had hoped to use the General Waterworks facilities as the nucleus for a county-wide water system. Consumers, Oakridge, Estates and Key Biscayne water companies, serving more than 30,000 customers, make up the firm.

Consumers in 1959 sought a 17 per cent rate increase in Coral Gables, but the request was denied by the City Commission.

A suit filed by the City of South Miami in 1959 to force the company's rates down is still in Circuit Court.

She Lived Under 2 Tyrannies

By MAURICE LABELLE

A recent refugee from Nazi and Communist tyranny sums up her feeling for America in three words — "I love it."

"I think people don't realize how fortunate it is to have freedom and liberty," said Mrs. Evi Rebecca Lombard, the new accident records clerk with the Coral Gables Police Department.

It was the loss of freedom as a young girl in Estonia and the fear that accompanied it that made her realize freedom's importance, she said.

We here in America are too concerned with worldly goods and not enough with our families, she said somewhat sadly.

Escape To Freedom

Mrs. Lombard knows how it is to lose family — she and her mother were the only ones lucky enough to escape to freedom. Others are dead or behind the Iron Curtain.

From the living she hears occasionally in censored letters.

"I was a very happy child," she said.

"We had a country home, but we lived in the city."

Home was the seaport-seaside town of Parnu in that small Baltic country. Her name was Evi Rebecca Tamm then.

Love of swimming, which she acquired as a young girl there, is the main thing that caused her to go first to Fort Lauderdale, where she lived for two years, and later to the Miami area.

It was there that she met Marco Lombard. They were married recently and moved to Miami. Lombard is a civil engineering student at the University of Miami.

The statuesque blonde smiles as she tells of her new life in America, but her mood becomes somber as she relates how the Soviets occupied her native land in the early 1940's.

Come Out Of Hiding

"I was too young to remember much about that," she said. The Tamms fled to the country and hid.

The Nazis came later as Hitler launched an invasion of the Soviet Union in 1941. The Tamms came out of hiding, but Estonia was now under German rule.

"I remember only the hard times," Mrs. Lombard said. Her mother held a post on the town council.

Then came the Soviet counter-offensive of 1944 and the Tamms made plans to flee again. It was during the flight that Mrs. Lombard and her mother became separated from her father and brother, Elmo.

That was the last time she saw them.

By small boat they fled to Riga and later by ship to Hamburg, Germany.

By then, Allied aerial pounding of German cities had become merciless. Hamburg was being hit almost daily. Much of the time was spent in bomb shelters.

"Mother traded all her possessions for food. We stood in line for hours for horse meat."

Not knowing the language made communication difficult at first.

Between bombings her mother worked in a German factory.

"One morning she went to work and the factory wasn't there any more."

Finally British troops land-

'Best Way To Learn Is to Teach'

The "teacher" finished reading to the pupils, smiled contentedly and slowly closed his book. His 15-minute-long class was over.

The "teacher" then coughed rather ceremoniously. And with all the authority a sixth grader could muster, he said, "I am now turning the class back over to Miss Smith."

This scene did not actually happen. But it's fairly similar to what does occur when the Future Teachers' Club goes into action at Everglades Elementary School, 8375 SW 16th St.

Fifth, Sixth Graders

Each school day for 15 minutes, a club member, who must be a fifth or sixth grader, steps into a teacher's classroom, whose pupils are always first or second graders.

The whole idea of the 25-member club, now in its second year, is to encourage pupils interested in teaching.

And it's happened that a child has joined the club with only a passing interest in teaching, only to become fascinated with the field, said principal Esther Kazer.

The future teacher's task isn't too hard. He might read a story, or lead the pupils in games, or even drill them in certain parts of their classroom work.

But it's not too easy to be eligible for the club. A pupil has to have good grades — nothing below a C — and possess a high degree of self-control.

Club Members

The club's members are Raymond Shenfield, Julian Kreisberg, Debbie Friedson, Shari Halberg, Arlene Dale.

Also, Billi Kaplan, Kathy Sands, Kathy Hendricks, Ronnie Kemper, Nancy Daves, Annette Steinberg, Elaine Ellison.

And, Alice Kornegay, Susan Breslow, Paulette Goodman, Linda Crocette, Jeanne Beck, Francine Fodiman, Carol Sarisky, Shelly Iteld.

Also, Joan Ferguson, Linda Hechtman, Isabel Ralston, Tina Wolff, Rina Cohan.

While Some Work, One Watches-- Le Jeune Job

Keeping City Spic 'n Span Is William Fagan's Job

WILLIAM W. FAGAN

William W. Fagan, given the top spot in the Coral Gables Public Works Department recently by the City Commission, started work here four years ago as a civil engineer and has been assistant public works director for the past two years. He worked for several engineering firms and taught engineering at Tufts University before starting his career with the City.

The new Public Works Director has the Sanitary Sewer, Engineering and Maintenance divisions under his jurisdiction. He outlines the work of his department as "The responsibility of overseeing work done on public lands and buildings."

Roads Top List

At the moment, of the many projects under his direction, the $20,000 sand and oil improvement of the streets is high on the list and is nearing completion. The proposed new fire station is also commanding his attention.

Fagan says that one of the big things the City is doing is the "Rehabilitation of the sidewalks in the downtown business district."

He also revealed that he has been ordered by the City Commission to prepare plans for the paving of University Dr., from Ponce de Leon to LeJeune Rd.

Not Self Directing

He points out that while the Public Works Department makes recommendations on certain projects, the actual work is ordered by the City Commission.

Fagan enjoys one unusual distinction in his new job.

He has in his department what is probably the only sewage disposal plant in the United States that has a mural on it.

"Coral Gables has received much favorable publicity about it throughout the United States and in Latin American countries," he said.

Planning Background

The new director also has a background in planning. Two years ago the City sent him for a concentrated two-week seminar on urban planning to the University of Arkansas.

"This has been helpful, as the Public Works Director has also been secretary of the planning board in the past," he said.

Fagan, who was born in Boston, lived in Newton, Mass., before coming to Florida.

He graduated from Tufts University at Medford, Mass., with an engineering degree in 1945, and was then commissioned in the Navy.

He lives with his wife, Antoinette, at 30 NW 189th St., and has four children, William, 11; Nancy Ann, 9; Richard 5 and Stephen, 4.

He's 6'3, Rough, Tough, Sun-Tanned

By RAYMOND LANG

John Harrison is 6'3" and muscular.

The sun has burnt his rugged face a leathery-brown and across it curls a handle-bar mustache.

Maybe you've seen Harrison working in a Gables flowerbed.

The Britisher, who came to the U.S. in 1953 with his French wife, Viviane, has been landscape foreman for the city the past year.

Has 3 Areas

It's up to Harrison to see that everything is dandy among shrubbery and flowers along Miracle Mile, Ponce de Leon Boulevard and Alhambra Circle.

In England, where he was born 42 years ago, he was a tree surgeon, veterinarian student, soldier (he was at Dunkirk), actor and tourist guide.

How did Harrison get into gardening?

"The way I got into gardening is the way most people get into something — by accident," Harrison said.

"When I got to New York, I thought I'd get a job in a tourist bureau. But I grabbed the first job offered me.

Sold Religious Goods

"It was rather odd. It was selling church vestments and altar hangings.

"When it got hot in New York in the summer, we moved out to Long Island and rented a broken-down, old shack.

"I used to get out there and push a beat-up mower around the lawn. There I was out in the hot sun.

Neighbors Puzzled

"And the neighbors were peeking out over the fence and they thought 'Hey, this guy is a cook or something.'

"Then they asked me if I wouldn't help them with their gardening. I did and I found out I could make more money gardening than I could at my regular job.

Took Night Courses

"Then I began to learn a little more about gardening. I started taking night courses.

"That's the marvelous thing about this country. A man can become anything he wants. The educational facilities are wonderful.

"I then decided to come down here to Miami where gardening is a year-round business. When I got down here I didn't know a thing about South Florida horticulture.

Got $1.15 an Hour

"So I got a job pushing a lawn mower around. I had a beat-up, old truck, two Puerto Ricans and got $1.15 an hour.

"I took some more courses in horticulture and haunted the libraries. And when the ad came out in the paper for this job, I applied."

When you go to the polls . . . please remember and vote for the biggest bargain in the history of Coral Gables. You are almost getting two candidates in one!! Twice qualified as a professional man, Dr. Evans is doubly qualified as a candidate for City Commissioner.

A PROFESSIONAL PERSON OF UNIQUE QUALIFICATIONS

Seldom does a candidate of the quality of Dr. Evans offer himself to the ramifications of public office. Doctor and lawyer . . . highly successful in both fields, Dr. Evans is possessed with a deep conviction that good government is the product of intelligent application to that single purpose. Dr. Evans is NOT of the school, "let George Do it." "Let Dr. Evans do it" is a much shorter and surer route to the attainment of better government in Coral Gables.

Patricia Winter, CG Grad, To Wed Mississippian

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Winter Jr., 5910 SW 81st St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Alice to Melvin Oakes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Oakes of Vicksburg, Miss.

The betrothal was made known during spring vacation when the young couple was here at the Winters' home. They plan a December wedding.

The bride-elect is an honor student graduate of Coral Gables High School and is a member of the sophomore class at Florida State University where she is on the dean's list.

Her fiancé, awarded a nuclear science fellowship to Florida State University, is presently a doctoral student at Florida State where he is a member of the American Physical Society. He was salutatorian of his 1954 Redwood High School class, attended Hinds Junior College and earned his B.S. in physics at Louisiana State College.

To The Citizens of Coral Gables:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the people of Coral Gables and the candidates for commission for their trust in me, and to assure you that I will continue to endeavor to keep Coral Gables the type of community that makes us want to live here.

As you vote on April 11 for four City Commissioners with backgrounds of interest and knowledge of this community, I would appreciate your vote of confidence for me as your Mayor.

Sincerely yours,

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Reiff of Bethpage, L.I., New York, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Ann, to Hugh Parker Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Todd of 1120 NW 75th St.

A September 23 wedding is planned by the couple and will take place in Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Both are members of the Miami Lutheran Chorus.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the University of Miami and resides at 20 Zamora Ave. in Coral Gables. She is employed as media director of the J. Walter Thompson Co. of Coral Gables.

Her fiance attended schools in Miami and Concordia Lutheran College, St. Paul, Minn. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps for three years and is now employed by the State Road Department.

God's Power For Man's Problems

By V. NEIL WYRICK JR.,
Pastor

Palmetto Presbyterian Church

Horace Mann once said, "Be ashamed to die until you have won some victory for humanity."

It does not have to be some international event or newscast specialty. It can be one small personal victory over bigotry when you have learned how to love and understand all men.

It can be some moment when a neighbor hears you speak out unashamed, "I love my God."

It can be everytime and anytime you do something kind for no gain, something brave for no reward, something good because you must.

Everytime you move yourself closer to God by acting more like his child, you move humanity a little closer too, and when this happens we both live in a world which is a little more like heaven and a little less like hell.

AF's Mace On Campus

The Air Force's Mace missile will be on public display at the University of Miami today (Thursday) through Friday.

The missile will be placed in front of the student union. It is powered by a turbojet engine and travels at speeds over 650 miles an hour. Maximum altitude is 40,000 feet.

Capt. Sarah J. Windland, Chief, WAF selection team, and T-Sgt. William Murray, recruiter-salesman, from the Coral Gables recruiting office will be present during display hours to answer questions regarding the Air Force as a career.

ABOUT

JOE MURPHY

How Right Can One Be?

There is nothing so agreeable as being in agreement. For that reason we like City Commissioner Joe Murphy's proposed City Charter change which really spells out conflict of interests.

Commissioner Murphy's action was not spontaneous or aimed at his fellow commissioners. Murphy months ago before he was elected pointed out the shortcomings of the City Charter in this respect and said he would work for reform if elected.

In this day of seemingly never ending scandal involving elected and other public officials, especially in this area, it is a good idea to close the loopholes before—not after—someone has succumbed to temptation.

Boy Scouts To Ask You To Help

Every home in Coral Gables will receive a Goodwill Industries collection bag from a Boy Scout on Saturday, April 15.

The local Boy Scout collection is part of $ nationwide drive in behalf of Goodwill Industries.

Goodwill Industries is a non-profit organization which provides employment and training for physically handicapped persons. Articles donated are renovated by the workers in Goodwill's plant, located in Dade, and sold through Goodwill stores.

Proceeds from the articles pay the wages of the handicapped.

After the Scouts distribute the collection bags to homes April 15, the public is asked to fill the bags with repairable clothing, shoes, and small articles, and have them ready for the Scout pickup Saturday, April 22.

Coral Gables Junior Chamber of Commerce will provide trucks and haul in the bags. Truck owners who will lend their trucks for the day are asked to contact Gables Jayce President Richard S. Fuller at his office, FR 7-2621.

Beauchamps Married By Bride's Father

On a wedding trip to St. Simon's Island, Ga., are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arthur Beauchamp whose wedding took place Saturday, at the First Methodist Church of Coral Gables.

The bride, the former Miss Dorothy Anne Head, is the daughter of the Rev. Lewis N. Head, DD, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Head of 2901 Granada Blvd.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Arthur C. Tippens and the late Rev. Luke Beauchamp of Nashville, Tenn.

Given in marriage by her brother, David Head, the bride wore a gown of candlelight taffeta designed with fitted bodice bracelet sleeves, scoop neckline, bell skirt and chapel train.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed the bodice and front and back of the skirt. Her short silk illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls and sequins and she carried white roses and orchids in a bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Robert Prendergast of Key West was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Goodwin of Atlanta; Miss Gretchen Bartlett of Tampa and Miss Ann Key of Jacksonville.

The four attendants wore identical gowns of pale blue silk organza with matching headpieces and they carried nosegays of violets centered with a pale pink Rock rose.

Wallace E. Beauchamp of Nashville, twin brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Steven Beauchamp of Nashville; Albert Sikkallee and Burk O. Long, both of Richmond, Va., and Glenn W. Draper of Miami.

Dr. Head officiated at the 7 p.m. candlelight service and the bride and bridegroom exchanged rings and vows in double ceremonies.

The reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Head chose a turquoise taffeta gown appliqued with lace re-embroidered in pearls and sequins. Her shoes and bag matching and her flowers were Phalaenopsis orchids.

Mother of the bridegroom was in a pale flamingo color chiffon gown with matching shoes and bag and her flowers were white roses.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Head, grandparents of the bride of St. Petersburg.

The bride is a graduate of Coral Gables High School and Florida State University where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, and Garnet Key.

The bridegroom will receive his BA degree in June, grad-

If Junior's arms hang out of his sleeves, or if Sis's dress won't button up the back, it's pretty obvious somebody's been growing!

With shoes, though, it's different. They can be a full size too short, and you might not notice it. That's why it's so important to check on size frequently.

Outgrown suits and dresses may look funny, but they aren't dangerous. Outgrown shoes, on the other hand, are a major cause of foot trouble.

Better let us check your youngster's foot-growth regularly. Our measuring sticks and trained shoe fitters are at your service!

How? How can this be done?

SET EXAMPLE

The solution to this problem is exposure to good example, but even more important, opportunity to learn by doing. The areas in which these processes must be accomplished are in the home, school, church, and community.

The answer is through proper parental training, an effective schooling program, an active church life, and responsible community interest. The effective citizen of today will prepare the effective citizen of tomorrow.

Yes, the answer is simple. Youth can be prepared for more effective citizenship through identification with persons of high personal integrity and social responsibility and through personal involvement in as many educational experiences as possible.

Evi

and occupied the area.

The taste of freedom was sweet to the young girl and her mother. They applied for visas to come to the United States after six years in the Germany they learned to hate.

Chicago, where other Estonian refugees had settled, became their new home in 1950. But Chicago was too distant from the sea for the ocean-loving Evi. Fort Lauderdale beckoned. And then Miami.

Will she ever return to Estonia?

"I'd like to visit, but I don't think I'd like to live there," she said.

"I don't think our country will ever be free," forgetting momentarily that she became a U.S. citizen five years ago.

Mrs. Walter Sackett was hostess Saturday at a tea honoring Beverly Anne Dix who will make her bow to society Friday night as the debs are presented at the Coral Gables Country Club.

The party was held in the club's attractive Granada Room on the second floor. Yellow and white was the color scheme. Beverly wore a yellow silk and lace frock which her mother made. Mrs. Sackett also wore a yellow and white party frock. Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Sackett's daughter, Monica (Mike), and Daru Sena. Mike also was in yellow and white but Daru wore an orchid and white frock. About 80 guests attended the party.

Another party for the debs will be tonight (Thursday) following the rehearsal at the Country Club, when Ken and Art Wittich honor their sister Anne and all the debutantes and their escorts at a Coke party at the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerald I. Rosen, 1065 Alfonso Ave., are spreading the red carpet Saturday for the arrival of Mr. Rosen's brother, Al (Flit) Rosen, former third baseman for the Cleveland Indians. Mrs. Rosen will be accompanied by his wife, Terry, and their two children.

His hosts have planned a "you all" party complete with Confederate flags bearing such slogans as "Welcome Home Cracker."

Al is now associated with Bache & Co., selling stocks and bonds in Cleveland. During the baseball season he does a turn on TV announcing the play by play from the box. About 100 guests will attend the party.

They'll swim, eat and sing Monday night. "They" are the 50-choir members of Tulane-Newcomb College, New Orleans, who will be entertained by Nick Hodsdon (member of the choir) at the large home of Nick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Hodsdon on Moss Ranch Road. There also will be guests at the party. The concert is at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Coral Gables.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney M. Fondren, 614 Altara Ave., have as their house guest, Andrew Coulter of Glasgow, Scotland, who met the Fondren's son, Gary when both served in the United States Air Force in Ipswich, England. It's a first trip to the United States for Andy, and he is especially interested in seeing all of Florida.

Coral Gables resident, Mrs. Flora Rosen, 749 Paradiso Ave., was judged the best dressed Sunday at Miami Beach's first annual Easter Parade, as thousands walked the new Lincoln Road Mall up one side and down the other. Her prize — a watch, her costume — a blue silk shantung dress and pyramid blue organza hat.

Husbands will wear the aprons and cook Wednesday evening when their wives, all members of the Coral Gables Junior Woman's Club, hold the annual Pot Luck Supper at the clubhouse. Aileen and Edward P. Swan are the hosts. Mrs. Swan is chairman of program for her club.

It Pays to Be Old. Mrs. Louise Gross, 1252 Aquila Ave., was presented a fan and a bead necklace in Honolulu for being the oldest person at the "Hukilan" Hawaiian picnic. With her daughter and son-in-law, the Joe Franzens, Mrs. Gross went by jet. The trip took 10 hours.

Pen pals for six years, Mary Ellen Herndon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Herndon of 1215 Capri St., caught her first glimpse of Donna Rogers of Wisconsin Rapids, Wisc., when she arrived by jet Monday. Donna, who is in Florida for the first time in her life, can't get over the sunshine, the birds, the flowers, bareheaded men, women and children and many people in shorts walking along the streets.

It was 27 degrees when she left Wisconsin. Donna will spend two weeks here. Tuesday they went shopping.

Gables Merchants Back Book

Endorsement of a guide and directory for Homestead Air Force Base was approved by the Retail Merchants Division of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce this week.

The endorsement came following the appearance of Lee Harward, a representative of Marquam and Company, Inc., publishers of the annual.

The Gordons Play Host To Wedding

Judge and Mrs. Fritz Gordon, 1706 Country Club Prado, were hosts and participants in a wedding Saturday afternoon at their home.

The bride, the former Daisy G. Fairbanks and the groom, Kenneth C. Smith, both of Tallahassee, were the contracting parties. The bride and Frances Gordon are long-time friends.

The new Mrs. Smith wore a champagne lace over aqua affeta with matching hat and shoes. Mrs. Gordon was maroon of honor and Frances Bohnsack, junior bridesmaid.

George C. Airth was best man. Judge Gordon officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The reception followed and out-of-town guests included Miss Mae Demerast of New York City, Col. and Mrs. Joseph R. Cooke and son, Bob of Clearwater, and Mrs. Edward Bohnsack, son Jim and daughter Frances of Davison, Mich.

The couple left for Key West and will spend about 10 days in the Keys. They will reside in Tallahassee.

'Man Must Have Ideals'

Teacher Searches for 'Moment of Truth,' Finds War

By RAYMOND LANG

A search for "a moment of truth" and Gideon Ramon ... and after that ...

After that combination came ... two wars ... a Czech cell ... a Jewish American crouched in a cockpit of a Nazi plane flying for Israel against Egypt.

Ramon has led a double life. It's seen him embroiled in World War II, the 1948 Israel-Egyptian conflict and the Korean outbreak.

But where the pilot once heard the rumble of anti-aircraft guns, he now hears the tap, tap, tap of students in his typing class at Southwest Miami High School.

And today with communism and capitalism slugging it out toe-to-toe, the five foot, seven inch, 155 pounder sheds light on the question: "What compels a man, usually peace loving, to fight, though his life hangs in the balance?"

"I guess there's something about proving yourself," Ramon said as he looked out the window and searched the sky for an answer.

"There comes a certain moment," he said softly, "when you'd like to know what you'd do under certain circumstances ... a moment of truth."

But why did Ramon, an American, volunteer to fly a fighter plane for Israel in 1948?

Plural Allegiance

Again he gazed out the window. He chose his words with care and used them slowly. "I'd say a man has a great many allegiances."

"... He's got an allegiance to his family, to his community. And he's certainly got a 'strong' allegiance to his ideals."

"If a man has no ideals — he's not a man!"

Ramon's chance came in 1948. "I felt very keenly that the Jewish people, who had suffered atrocities under the Nazis, should have some place to go."

"At that time, Israel needed

Seaman to work on boats ... to help smuggle refugees into Palestine. So I volunteered.

"They sent me a questionnaire. I indicated that I had been a fighter pilot during World War II ... and they asked me if I would be willing to help defend Israel in case of war. I indicated I would."

From that moment on, Ramon led a life lifted from the pages of a fairy book story.

He went to Czechoslovakia to pick up the plane that had been sold to Israel. It was a German Messerschmidt.

Due to an improper visa, Ramon was tossed in jail for three weeks, lost 15 pounds and then released.

But he did get to fight in the skies over Egypt and plummeted 12 enemy aircraft to the earth. He was hurt only once when his plane flipped over while taxing down a dirt runway.

So it's a long way from flax-filled skys over the enemy head to a high school classroom. But for Gideon Ramon there had to be that search for "a moment of truth."

Bowlers Roll Those High Scores

In the newly organized Coconut Groves League, Peggy Weiss, bowling for Tahiti-Beach had a 522 set.

Also in the same league, Sandy Doddridge, who recently changed her style of bowling, blasted out a 199 for a 514 set. Good bowling, Sandy.

Neil Alford bowling for the Dixie Drive-In Theatre had a 210 for a 589 set. Walter May rolled a 513.

Dr. Ebelmesser, bowling for Coral Gables Rotary No. 1 in the Intercivic League, rolled a 209 for a 565 set. Wendell Roberts had 218-550.

In the South Dade Ladies All Stars, Edie Jo Russo had a 523 and Pauline Stickler with 521, they both bowl for the first place Anita Reynolds team.

In the recent Women's City Tournament, Edie teamed up with Pauline for the doubles competition. Edie rolled a 651 set. Then she came back in the singles and shot 617.

In the Beth Am League, Ed Salem, had 546 and Stan Goldstein 538. J. Goldsmith 202, I. Goldstein 203 and M. Russinoff 212 completed the scoring.

In the South Dade Men's All Stars, Elliott Brandon on the Pan Am Tobacco team rolled a 245 game for a 605 set.

Courtney Burwell in the Sun-land Early Birds League had a 241 game. Her first thoughts were to call hubby and tell him the good news.

Ruth Pollack in the Dixie Belle's League had a 205. This was her first 200. Sis Bowles had a 205 game for a 511 set.

In the Dixiecrats League, Joe Massimino rolled a 212, with a 544 set.

Eddie White in the Metro Mixed League had a 203 for a 516 set. Also Des Tulare had a 220 for a 602.

In the South Miami Elks League No. 1 on the Loyal Knights team Lee Garner had a 200. Hank Foundas notched a 505 set and Frank Rafferty posted 204-529.

Others were Joe Braham, 207-578, Earl Parker 237-581, Kay Bennett, 220 handicap game, Les Dickenson, a 226-561.

Kay's team had a 986 game only to lose to the opponents, 1,005.

In the Dixie Men's Handicap League, Jones, of Jones-

Fredrick team had a 217 for an even 600.

Stan Swain in the Bay Glades League had a 584 set. Bob Wallace rolled 213-523 and R. Martin 235 for a 639 bowling for the Sundquist Paint team to take four points from Deel Ford No. 1.

We predicted that Claudia Lee would soon get her 600.

Recently, in the South Miami Elks League, Claudia had 199, 196, 208, for a 603 set. Claudie must have been celebrating her newly adopted daughter. The baby is six weeks old.

Florida Rebs Won Battles

By SAMUEL PROCTOR
(Professor of History, University of Florida)

Part II

Florida wrote her first constitution in 1838 and waged the political battle which resulted in her winning statehood in 1845.

It was during the first years as a state, the uneasy years before the Civil War, that education became a major concern, and efforts were made to establish at least one public school in every county.

In 1853 the East Florida Seminary, the earliest parent of the University of Florida, began receiving state support, and four years later the West Florida Seminary in Tallahassee, which eventually became Florida State University, was established.

Florida Secedes

In 1861, Florida seceded from the Union and joined the Confederacy.

While Florida never became a major theatre of military operations, her troops fought on every battlefield and the state furnished huge quantities of food and military supplies to the Confederate military.

Florida beef, pork, corn, and citrus helped to fill the bellies of Confederate soldiers, and Florida cotton helped to clothe them.

The state well earned the title, "Breadbasket of the Confederacy."

2 Major Battles

The South won the only two major battles fought in Florida, Olustee, outside of Lake City, and the Battle of Natural Bridge, north of St. Marks. Tallahassee was the only Confederate capital east of the Mississippi which was not captured.

During the Reconstruction Era, Florida, along with the rest of the South, faced the task of reorganizing her society and rebuilding her nearly ruined economy.

It was during this time that Florida was being discovered as a major tourist state, and famous Americans, like Robert E. Lee and Ulysses S. Grant, visited the State. Others, like Harriet Beecher Stowe, so much enjoyed the climate that they made their home here.

State Praised

Mrs. Stowe's articles, appearing in Northern newspapers, extolled the state and her citizens.

Property Owners To Hear Candidates

The Property Home Owners Association will hear candidates for the Coral Gables City Commission at its monthly meeting Friday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The meeting is held at the Youth Center. Ray Oliver and several musicians will present a program.

In the controversial election of 1876, Florida's electoral vote helped to decide who was going to be president of the United States and the results of this political battle ended Reconstruction.

Florida, as the 19th century ended, was being rediscovered by men like Henry Flagler and Henry B. Plant, whose financial resources seemed vast and unlimited.

Money Helped

Their millions rejuvenated Florida's economy, and railroads, steamships, naval stores, and phosphate boomed into valuable assets.

South Florida was opened up, and the East coast saw large communities like Miami and Palm Beach, emerge almost overnight.

These men of wealth were not content to control only Florida's economic life; they also wanted to dominate her government. Political resentment grew and an anti-corruption faction finally wrested control from the conservatives and launched a progressive movement in the state.

Growth After WW I

Florida experienced great growth in the decade after World War I when it seemed as though everyone in the country had been seized with a mad desire to own a bit of Florida land.

Prices sky-rocketed, and thousands journeyed to the state expecting to see carved out of the pine forest wilderness, white-marbled cities which would resemble Venice, the French Riviera and the Arabian Nights.

When the boom bubble burst and the state was swept by two disastrous hurricanes in 1926 and 1928, there were many who believed that Florida was finished and that its growth had been stopped forever.

Time, however, disproved this pessimism, and Florida emerged from a long struggle against depression with new energy and revived confidence.

WW II Boosted

World War II greatly boosted her economy, and accelerated an industrial boom.

Then, when the war ended, many hundreds of thousands of Americans, representing all ages and occupational skills, decided that they wanted to live in a state whose history had been punctuated so often with excitement and romance, and whose future growth and progress seemed to have no limitations.

Here's Beginner's Luck

IT'S A MAN'S WORLD when it comes to playing tennis. That's what Susan Howell learned when she tried to play the sport at Salvadore Park. After re-

THE SELECTIVE RETIREMENT PLAN

a new concept of employee benefit programming

Many close corporations have steered clear of a qualified pension trust — and with good reason:

- It commits the corporation into the future
- It cannot be fully controlled because it involves Internal Revenue Bureau approval
- Fixed eligibility requirements preclude discrimination in favor of key employees

The PROGRESSIVE close corporation now has available a realistic NON-QUALIFIED pension program which avoids the disadvantages of a government approved plan while retaining its attractive features.

ADVANTAGES OF A SELECTIVE PENSION PLAN

- Eligibility is controlled by the corporation. It may be confined to hand-picked employees.
- The corporation is not committed. The plan may be discontinued at will.
- Government approval is not required. The corporation is in full control at all times.
- Corporation cost may be predetermined and fixed at inception!
- Corporation cost is fully tax deductible.
- It is 100% flexible. A different basis may be used for each selected employee.
- Its well-conceived contributory features provide more employee benefits for less corporate cost.

Dignity And Beauty...Keynote At Riverside

Discreet beauty is the keynote of the Riverside Memorial Chapel at SW 37th Ave. and 17th St., newest in the South Florida organization which has become widely known and respected for its pace-setting policies in the decoration and atmosphere of funeral homes.

Completed last July at a cost of $250,000, the Riverside chapel is a tribute to the company's belief that dignity and respect do not have to be restricted to rooms of black and gray and stark white.

The Douglas Road chapel has departed from that colorless, depressing theme, and yet remains within the bounds of good taste and propriety.

It is quietly colorful, with gentle tones of beige, cocoa and copper in the trim, while walls are done in soft whites, lavenders and emerald greens. The latter is the motif in the chapel, for example, and this room is set further apart from the old-fashioned ideas by use of a glass wall behind the pulpit. Back of the glass is a profusion of living green plants.

Reposing rooms at the southwest chapel are decorated as tastefully as the living room in a private home, with hand-painted Oriental flower murals on the walls and the most comfortable furniture, gracefully arranged to provide convenience for family and friends during visits to the chapel.

Locally owned, the Riverside Memorial Chapel was created especially to please those who, when they require its services, should have to give no thought whatever to external things. Thus, the natural stones and glass, the grass wall hangings, the soft rock garden with its gently flowing water, all lend themselves to the soothing of troubled hearts, inspiring a mood of quiet relaxation and meditation.

Many of the decorative innovations at the Riverside chapel were created by famed interior designer Roz Mark, from ideas conceived by the late Irving Blasberg, who was head of the Riverside chain here before his untimely death last year.

His son, Larrie S. Blasberg, is funeral director at the chapel, and is stepping into his father's place in direction of the organization.

idian for many years, is treasurer of Riverside Memorial Chapels and one of the main planners in creation of the new building.

Leonard Zilbert, executive director, moved here recently from New York City and is active in management and planning for the expansion program which Riverside is now undertaking.

General Manager of the 37th Ave. chapel is Arthur Zweigenthal, a 20-year resident of Miami and long-time executive with Riverside. A native New Yorker, he also is active here in civic and fraternal organizations.

Not only the interior of Riv-erside's new chapel has been done in the modern style. Outside, it is landscaped with an Oriental motif and so designed that if it were not for the identifying sign, no one would imagine the building is a funeral home. And, with today's traffic conditions in mind, Riverside carefully provided a 100-car parking lot at the chapel.

There are three other Riverside Memorial Chapels in this area; one, at Normandy Isle, was modernized and enlarged two years ago. Another, on Alton Road at 20th St., will be reconstructed this spring, and the third is on Washington Ave. at 12th St., Miami Beach.

Gross Wins Gables Spelling

By LESLIE GROSS
School Correspondent

For the third straight year, Leslie Gross has been named spelling champion of Coral Gables High School.

It is his fourth year of being champion for he won the South Miami Junior High match four years ago. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Charles Gross of 6380 SW 62nd Ter.

He will represent the Gables in the Herald-sponsored county-wide spelling bee next Monday.

Maxine Master Next

Finishing close behind Leslie were Senior Maxine Master and Sophomore Jim Fisher.

Some of the brain teasers that tripped the champs are lapis lazuli, lares and penates, kohl, Pleiades and retousse.

Results by grade are Tenth Grade 1. Fisher, 2. Steve Alter, 3. Sam Matthews; Eleventh Grade, 1. Tony Wasserman, 2. David Rimland, 3. Barry Ryan; Twelfth Grade, 1. Gross, 2. Master, 3. William Wilson.

At the awards presentation of the 7th Annual Science Fair Mike Zinner, Gables sophomore, won the overall prize, a 10-day trip to Europe.

Eloise Melson won the top prize for girls, a $300 award.

Rosner Superior

Superior rating also went to Junior Evelyn Rosner. David Rimland won an excellent rating in the botany division.

Gables X-Club's speech contest for democracy and citizenship has been concluded. Winner of a $50 prize and a chance to compete on the county level is Martin Goldberg. Second place and $30 went to Elliott Zack. Tied for third and receiving $10 each were Betsey Warren and Bill Brown.

NFL Takes in 72

Seventy-two new members were inducted into the school's chapter of the National Forensic League. This is the largest group of new members in NFL's history.

They are Ronald Jacobson, Jerry Jones, Stewart Logan, Michele Pivar, Penny Powers.

Sale Nears For Home Of Merrick

Merrick Manor, built in 1905 by Solomon Merrick, is in the process of being sold.

The unnamed purchasers will continue to use the historic building for a residence, according to Merrick Kuhn, heir to the estate with his brother Donald Kuhn, of East Lansing, Mich.

OWNERS ARE NEPHEWS

The Kuhns are nephews of Ethel Merrick, who willed the 56-year-old residence to them following her recent death.

Miss Merrick was the daughter of Solomon Merrick and sister of George Merrick, the city's founder.

Miss Merrick had proposed converting the building to a historic site, but failed to get the support of the City Commission.

SALE THIS WEEK

Executor for the estate, Lawrence G. Ropes Jr., said he expected the sale to be consummated sometime this week.

The 1½-acre tract, located at 907 Coral Way, is all that's left of the 160-acre tract that George Merrick used as a nucleus to build his city.

Venetian Aquatic Club

The Venetian Pool Aquatic Club, of which Mrs. Ray Perry is president, will be guest group at the Jim Dooley Brunch at Suniland Wednesday, April 12, at 9:30 a.m.

The program will be broadcast from 10 to 11 a.m. The club is comprised of 70 members, mostly mothers belonging to the Parent-Teacher Associations of at least 15 schools in the Coral Gables-South Dade area, all interested in promoting water safety for Dade County children.

Fifteen hundred children were taught to swim by this group last year in its 10-week summer program. All the members participate in one way or another, although not all of them are swimming teachers.

There are 24 qualified Red Cross water safety instructors among the members.

DON'T BE CHECK-MATED VOTE-WEKSLER

The City Commission election of April 11, 1961, will determine the future of Coral Gables. We are all concerned over the City's future as we do not want our City Beautiful turned into a City Spoiled — despoiled in order to satisfy the greed and avarice of several real estate promoters and speculators. DO NOT PERMIT THE "HIGH RISE" AND "ZONING CHANGE" syndicate to elect its slate of candidates to the City Commission and HAVE YOU AND YOUR RIGHTS CHECKMATED!!!

City Commissioner Jim Hess Endorses Bernard B. Weksler

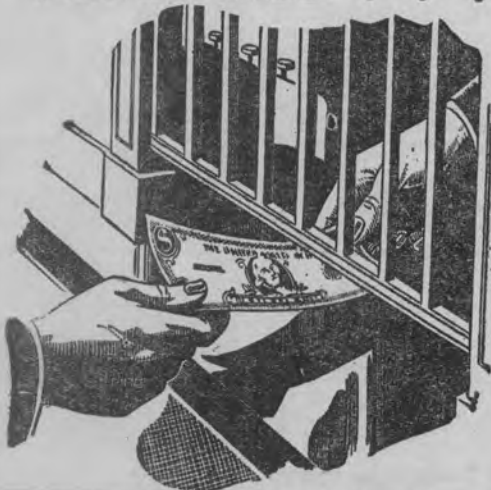

Coral Gables City Commissioner Jim Hess announced today his endorsement of BERNARD B. WEKSLER and recommended his election to the Coral Gables City Commission.

"Bernard B. Weksler," said the present City Commissioner, "possesses all the attributes and qualities that I like in a City Commissioner. He is capable, knows the problems of our City, is honest, sincere, and a man of great integrity."

Hess, in asking his friends and supporters to vote for WEKSLER, went on to say that the candidate, a 39 year old attorney-accountant, knows how to plan for the future development of Coral Gables, is a firm believer in strict zoning enforcement, and is strongly opposed to high rise buildings in residential and apartment areas.

Local 'Grandma Moses' Finds Art Romantic

"You can turn it into a nice romance," Laura Turner said as she talked of her painting.

Her soft French accent was the only indication that the small, friendly woman was born and has lived much of her life in a suburb of Brussels, Belgium.

She spends the winter months with her only son,

Jacque, and his wife and 9-year-old son, Gary, at 928 Escobar Ave. Mr. Turner is French consul in Miami and regional manager of Air France, the world-wide, national airline of France.

How Long?

"Since I was born," the elder Mrs. Turner replied in answer to a question about how long she has been painting. Her training was received at the academies of art in Brussels, London, Paris and Munich.

Mrs. Turner argued quietly with her attractive daughter-in-law, Evelyn, over the style of her work. "It's modern," she said.

"It was modern 50 years ago," the younger woman replied. The two finally decided that the correct term is "contemporary impressions."

"Not abstract or anything like that," Laura Turner added.

Portraits, still lifes, compositions and landscapes in fresco, oil, and water colors compose the bulk of her art. Most of her European paintings are in oil. Florida scenes are done in water colors.

"Water colors — it's more successful," she said. "People like it better."

Hobby and Livelihood

Mrs. Turner's art is both a hobby and the means of her living. Every two years she exhibits her work in a one-man show at the famous Beaux Arts in Brussels.

Many paintings have been sold to the Belgian government and to private parties in that country. In the Gables she sells only to close friends and has never exhibited here.

Almost all of the paintings she did while traveling through Italy, France, Spain and Switzerland have been sold.

"I was always in the mood to paint," Mrs. Turner said. "Now I don't work too much. Better in the morning, but I can work in the afternoons too — everyday."

Her Studio

One of her oils was a painting of the inside of her studio in Brussels. The ceiling is two stories high, and stairs lead to a second-floor balcony overlooking a patio.

Her sometimes delicate, sometimes bold use of color depicts a style all her own. She always paints directly from nature. This is readily portrayed in a Belgian village scene, a quiet street with gypsy fair tents and amusements settled in the center of the market place.

Mrs. Turner will be going back to Brussels shortly. As for the future, she'll just "keep on painting."

LUPLUM ELEMENTARY

Miss Millicent Chamberlain, art teacher, will speak to the membership of Ludlum Elementary School PTA concerning "The Child and His Art," April 11 at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. The program is under the direction of Mrs. A. L. Brown, 7855 West Sunset Dr.

Art exhibits from all classes in the school will be on display.

Officers for next year will be elected.

TROPICAL ELEMENTARY

The April meeting of Tropical Elementary School will be held Tuesday, April 11 at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Paul Brick, a representative from the Boy Scouts, will speak to the membership about Boy Scouts and he will try to organize a Tropical Elementary troop.

A health film will be shown and election of next year's PTA officers will be held.

CORAL GABLES ELEMENTARY

The next PTA meeting for Coral Gables Elementary School will be April 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The topic for the meeting will be "A Panoramic View of Dade County's Guidance Program." Miss Margaret Gilkey, director of guidance for Dade County schools, will speak to the membership on this topic.

Election of officers for next year's PTA will be held. The following slate will be presented by Mrs. W. Bates Cole, nominating committee chairman: president, Mrs. Frank S. Nowak; first vice president, Mrs. W. D. Reynolds.

Second vice president, Mrs. Robert K. Andre; third vice president, Mrs. W. M. Copp; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles L. Craig.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joe Coppedge; and treasurer, Mrs. Hugh A. Page Jr.

Cut-Rate Golf For Boards OK

Half-fee rates at Coral Gables municipal golf courses for the city's advisory boards was approved by the City Commission last week.

The move had been recommended by the Recreational Advisory Board, headed by Charles Rogers.

Board member Bernard B. Weksler cast the only vote against the proposal.

"The only way to stop the free pass business is at the top," Weksler said following the Commission's action.

Apathy Ruining Florida Politics, Chamber 'Action' Group Told

Apathy is the most serious problem facing Florida politics today, the politicians, but they said that groups such as this one are a good start.

State Rep. George Hollahan, Metro Commissioner Winston W. Wynne and City Commissioner Frank Kerdyk were unanimous in that opinion when they appeared before graduates of the Chamber of Commerce's "Action in Practical Politics" course March 30.

How to curb that apathy proved a tough question for Hollahan was critical of the role of the press and television in endorsing candidates without adequate examination of their background and qualifications.

Wynne and Kerdyk were both critical of the manner in which political campaigns are carried out in Coral Gables.

"You never get around to finding out if the man is qualified," said Wynne.

Kerdyk said most of the candidates appear before civic clubs, talk about their memberships and families and duck out on the issues.

Two Gables Boys Leaving for N.Y.

Molding the Character of a New Generation

Church is not a place. It is a personal experience with God. A re-discovery of human worth. The tapping of a limitless reservoir of inner power. An awareness of our blessings and the needs of others. Worship knots together the loose ends of individual lives, bringing love, purpose and harmony to families and communities.

Religious freedom is an inherent right of every American. Today's business management must continue to uphold this right and give its support to individuals and groups who seek to exercise it.

ters and so on. Our gum sales dried up, too, in the end.

"About that time, however, Roosevelt was elected and beer came back. We sold out everything except our brewery. And that's how we weathered Prohibition."

In 1946 when he was 70, Gabel sold Blatz to Schenley Distilleries, which has since sold it to Pabst. The beer company was doing $18 million worth of business then and the man who sold it had begun in Chicago as a Blatz office boy.

At the summer the Gabels go to their home at Elkhart Lake in Wisconsin, about 50 miles from Milwaukee where their only daughter and five grandchildren live.

Some of Elkhart is here with them. Geraniums from the lake home line part of the front walk on Caballero.

On the side of the house, by air conditioning apparatus, is a pretty flower called "Impatience."

"Be sure to keep it in the shade," said Mrs. Gabel as she stopped to cut a planting.

"Want a beer?" her husband yelled from the porch.

Book Review Funds for School Library

Mrs. Frank Kerdyk will review the book "The Snake Has all the Lines," by Jean Kerr, at 10:30 a.m. today (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Peter J. Achaefer, 10711 SW 61st Ave.

Coffee will precede the review. Proceeds will provide funds for the school library.

How to Run a Library

She Dusted, Scrubbed, Dressed As a Lady

By RAYMOND LANG

When Margaret Beaton was a little girl in Cleveland, each week she faithfully went to "Story Hour" at a neighborhood library.

She loved books.

But what she was to read in books as a little girl can't match stories about the early days of the Coral Gables Library, where she's been head librarian since 1928.

Miss Beaton, preparing for National Book Week April 16-22, paused from her work one recently to reminisce.

"In those days, of 1928 we couldn't afford a janitor so one day with a dust cloth on my head I got down to scrub the floor.

"I don't know why I had to do it that day except that I felt it had to be cleaned before books and supplies could be put away.

"That day, a Mr. Gaylord, who was head of Gaylord Library Supplies, known throughout the world, came in and asked for the head librarian.

"I didn't want to tell him I was!

"I had too much pride to let him know I was the head librarian. I told him if he came back tomorrow, the head librarian would be in.

I was hoping he wouldn't recognize me the next day. I'd be dressed up.

"He did come back the next day and he asked for the head librarian. I told him I was. And of course he recognized me, "but we became warm friends."

Miss Beaton told another story of the early days.

"One day, a woman came to the library. She had just come to the United States from Germany and we hadn't gone to war with them yet.

"She couldn't speak English. And I couldn't speak German.

"I went to get a German dictionary and asked her if she couldn't come back Sunday. She did.

"When she came in Sunday, she saw a piano, motioned to it and sat down to play.

"It was one of the most beautiful afternoons I had ever spent. She played like a concert pianist."

A third experience today brings a chuckle from Miss Beaton. It concerns the freezing winter of '27-'28.

"It was very cold that winter and we were all so full of fire that we thought only of giving to the public and not ourselves.

"There was a wood stack outside and we used to go out there, bring in the wood, get the paper and get the fire started in the library's fireplace.

"We never wanted the people to see us doing it," Miss Beaton quickly pointed out,

"manual labor and all.

"And I can still remember us in those heavy coat coats waiting on the people without any heat in that tremendous building."

Though working conditions were grueling, the library prospered. Book circulation has risen from 1,200 a month to 17,000. The number of volumes has shot from 2,800 to 38,000.

"I guess I've been so busy all my life the years have piled up. When you look back at them, it seems like such a long time."

MISS MARGARET BEATON

Manager Tells Why

Meter Girls Appeal Firing

The two meter checkers fired by City Manager L.W. Robinson Jr. last week for refusing to explain discrepancies on overtime parking tickets have asked for a trial before the city's trial board.

"I regard these discrepancies as material and important," Robinson told Attorney William Pruitt, counsel for Mrs. Shirley Searle and Norweida Barrow.

"This city cannot, and will not, tolerate employees who not only are guilty of discrepancies in important matters but are also guilty of wilful insubordination, and absolute and stubborn refusal, not only to explain but to make any comment or answer any questions regarding their work," Robinson said.

The city manager listed more than 40 tickets for each girl in which he said a discrepancy existed between the original ticket and a third copy.

The girls have countered the accusations by charging that they had been placed on a quota system and that no matter how many tickets they wrote it wasn't enough.

Both Robinson and Finance Director Kenneth Allyn, under whose department the meter checkers were recently transferred from the Police Department, denied the statement.

No trial date has been set.

Gulf Oil Prepares Move To Old Post Office Site

Gulf Oil Corporation's new Western Hemisphere Exploration Division will open its new quarters in the old post building, 120 Giralda, Monday, April 10.

The announcement was made this week by Division Manager T. A. Kibby, who will move here from New York.

"The move will permit closer and faster liaison with explorations in Central and South American Countries where Gulf is now active," Kibby said.

Twenty-six employees will be transferred from New York to Coral Gables.

Others include C. H. Neff, exploration manager; R. H. Leitch, financial and services coordinator; W. C. Lamb, chief geophysicist; and L. C. Sass, chief geologist.

Ed Rogers, former Gables commissioner who owns the property, said that the firm will provide employment ultimately for about 60 persons.

Facilities in the 12,500 Square-foot building will include a laboratory to test samples flown in from Panama, Peru, Costa Rica, British Honduras, the Bahamas and from more recently discovered fields in Bolivia.

'Cane Debut Tomorrow

The 1961 version of the University of Miami Hurricanes will be previewed tomorrow (Friday) in the Orange Bowl. Game time is 8:15 p.m.

Children under 14 will be admitted free to the spring intrasquad game and adult tickets are $1.

The game is sponsored by the Alumni Gridders, who will be at the Coral Gables Country Club June 2 for the annual alumni dance.

Dinner, which is optional, is scheduled for 7 p.m. The dance which starts at 9:30 p.m., will feature the music of Eddie Bumgartner.

Water Level To Go Down

Water pressure in the industrial section of Coral Gables is expected to take a drop in the next few weeks while a four-foot wide main is moved on LeJeune Road.

Edwin Kellerman, vice president and general manager for Consumers Water Company of Coral Gables, said this week that other areas west of LeJeune Road will also be affected slightly.

The Gables Fire Department, which would be affected in case of fires in these sections, has been alerted, Kellerman said.

But only the large industrial users will find any noticeable difference, he added.

The 48-inch water main is being lowered by the Miami Water Department in conjunction with the LeJeune Road widening project from Tamiami Trail and South Dixie Highway.

THE ONLY WOMAN CONTESTANT in a field of 13 men is Sonia Klein, who will take part April 13 in a city-sponsored "Rodeo." It is an obstacle course to test driving skills of city employees. Mrs. Klein, with the Youth Center, is seen here backing a city vehicle into a frame rectangular "corral." Only three inches on each side is allowed. (Staff photo by Raymond Long)

Election Tuesday Has 11 Seeking Spot Saved for 4

(Jerry) Dressel Jr., Charles M. Powell, Charles R. Berry, Harold J. Cram, Henry G. Simonite, Leo F. (Lee) Mahan, Dr. Franklin J. Evans, George M. Wilson and Dr. James C. Chimerakis.

The candidates made their last major appearance last night (Wednesday) before the League of Women Voters at the Youth Center. Monday they addressed the Coral Gables Woman's Club.

The major issue raised during the campaign was the one of high rise buildings.

Conflicts of interests also occupied a top spot as a campaign issue.

ISSUES LISTED

Planning for the future of the city and what to do with windfall of between $300,000 and $800,000 resulting from the paying off of a part of the city's bonded indebtedness represented another important issue.

The economy of the downtown area, illegal room renting, recreation and the Douglas Entrance controversy rounded out the campaign.

Three Coral Gables groups came out for the same four candidates.

The Coral Gables Citizens Association, the Apartment Association and the board of directors of the Sunrise Harbour Association all have come out with endorsements for Murphy, Weksler, Simonite and Evans.

Meanwhile, a question was raised about a City Charter provision which prohibits city commissioners from holding other official positions other than member of the state militia and notary public.

Candidate Wilson is a commissioner with the Florida Inland Navigation District and Dr. Evans is an assistant to the state attorney for Dade County.

SEES NO CONFLICT

Evans said he saw no conflict and Wilson could not be reached for comment. City Attorney Ted Semple was out of town and could not give a ruling.

Former commissioner Winston W. Wynne resigned recently when he was elected to the Metro Commission.

Only four more days remain to campaign before the electorate go to the polls Tuesday.

The four polling stations are: Precinct 1, Country Club; Precinct 2, Youth Center; Precinct 3, Ponce Junior High School Gym; Precinct 4, The Coral Gables Woman's Club, 1001 East Ponce de Leon Blvd.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF GENERAL BIENNIAL ELECTION AND FOR REGISTRATION IN THE CITY OF CORAL GABLES
A general biennial election will be held in the several precincts in the City of Coral Gables, Florida, on the 11th day of April, A.D. 1961, from 7:00 o'clock A.M. to 7:00 o'clock P.M. on said date, for the purpose of electing four Commissioners and designating a choice for Mayor.
The two candidates receiving the highest number of votes for the office of Commissioner shall each hold office for a term of four (4) years; the candidates receiving the third number of votes will hold office for a term of two (2) years; the candidate receiving the fourth highest number of votes will hold office for a term of two (2) years and will fill the unexpired term of a former commissioner, resigned.
A part of the ballot will be so arranged that the electors may designate their choice for Mayor for the ensuing two years of those candidates or incumbent Commissioners who may request their names to be placed upon the ballot for Mayor.
This election will be held in the several voting precincts of the City of Coral Gables, and at the voting place in the respective precincts as established by ordinance in said City. The voting precincts and the polling places therefor will be as follows:
PRECINCT NO. 1—All of the City of Coral Gables lying north of Coral Way and west of LeJeune Road, Polling Place, Coral Gables Country Club, 997 North Greenway Drive.
PRECINCT NO. 2—All of the City of Coral Gables lying south of Coral Way and north of LeJeune Road, Polling Place, 400 Avenue Anastasia.
PRECINCT NO. 3—All of the City of Coral Gables lying south of Bird Road and south of the line of Bird Road extended across the waters of Biscayne Bay to the eastern jurisdictional boundary of said City of Coral Gables, Polling Place, The Gymnasium Building of the Ponce de Leon Junior High School, 1001 East Ponce de Leon Boulevard.
PRECINCT NO. 4—All of the City of Coral Gables lying north of Miracle Mile and east of LeJeune Road, Polling Place, Coral Gables Woman's Club, 1001 East Ponce de Leon Boulevard.
For the purpose of permitting those otherwise qualified to register as electors in this election, the registration books of the City of Coral Gables will be open in the office of the City Clerk in the City Hall in Coral Gables, from 8:00 o'clock A.M. to 5:00 o'clock P.M. each weekday, Monday through Friday, to and including March 3, 1961, and from 8:00 o'clock A.M. to 5:00 o'clock P.M. on Monday and Tuesday, March 6 and 7, 1961, and from 8:00 o'clock A.M. to 2:00 o'clock P.M. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 8, 9 and 10 and 11, 1961, at which latter time the books will be closed.
To register a person must be of legal age (21 years) (at date of registration), a citizen of the United States, a legal citizen and resident of the State of Florida for one year and of the City of Coral Gables for six months immediately preceding the date of registration. To qualify to vote at the election of April 11, 1961, an elector of the city must have been registered after January 2, 1948, inasmuch as all prior registration lists were voided by the City Commission.
Information as to the qualification of electors and candidates, and the manner of filing nominations for the offices to be voted upon, may be secured by inquiring at the office of the City Clerk in the City Hall of Coral Gables, Florida.
