Gables election draws near

Nine candidates seek three seats

With nine mayor and commission candidates on the slate in the Coral Gables Bi-Ennial Election, Tuesday, April 12, city officials again are predicting a low turnout.

The projection for 1977 voter turnout is 5,279, or 21 percent of voters registered, according to Virginia Paul, city clerk.

Candidate biographies and platform summaries appear on pages 10, 11.

Voter turnout has been steadily declining since 1971, when 41 percent of the registered voters made it to the polls. In the 1973 election, 27 percent voted, and in 1975 the percentage dropped by four points to 23 percent.

A total of 25,139 Coral Gables residents are registered for the election, up 1,176 from the 1975 election. Of this total, more than 2,000 voters are students of University of Miami, a little less than half of the projected voter turnout.

Recent University of Miami graduate Bruce Lehr, a candidate for mayor and commissioner, said he believes a large UM turnout could aid him in his election bid.

Two persons seriously injured in boiler explosion at hotel

By CLAIRE ORTALDA
Staff Writer

An explosion that tore out two walls and seriously injured two people rocked the Chateaubleu Inn, 1111 Ponce De Leon Blvd, Sunday morning.

Pieces of metal and bricks were scattered for blocks around the hotel when five fire engines and five police units arrived.

The severity of the blast led Coral Gables Fire Department officials to call the Metro bomb squad according to Chief Joe Atwood, but the squad determined that the explosion was definitely the result of steam pressure that had built up in a hot water heater located on the third floor of the hotel.

"I honestly thought someone had put some dynamite in there," Atwood commented. "Two hours after the explosion, I touched a piece of metal and it was still red hot." Atwood said that the bomb squad had found no burn or scorch marks or any evidence of an open flame. "It was just incredible steam pressure," he said.

The force of the blast blew a metal clad door off the mechanical room in which the heater was housed, broke sliding glass windows and door locks along the third floor and carried the gas water heater into Room 325, which was occupied.

Oscar Oliva 50, and Cary Sanchez, 34, occupants of the room, were listed in serious condition at area hospitals. Oliva, who resides at 1460 NW 37th St., suffered second degree burns over 20 to 30 percent of his body and a lacerated artery in his left wrist. He was bleeding profusely when police and fire officers found him outside the room.

Ms. Sanchez, who listed a New York address, also suffered second degree burns on her arms, legs and back. Both victims were transferred to Coral Gables General Hospital by fire rescue units. Oliva was moved to Mercy Hospital Tuesday.

Fire Department personnel are working now to reconstruct the gas-

Evaluation of S. Miami police expected to be completed in May

A report on an evaluation of the South Miami Police Department being made now for City Manager Jack Present will likely be in the city's hands by May 15.

The city manager asked for the evaluation to determine the truth about the administrative policies of the police department and the cause of a morale problem brought out by the office of State Attorney Richard Gerstein. City officials also hope that the thorough evaluation which is being done by the International Association of Police Chiefs will permanently put to rest a feud between the police department administration and the South Miami Lodge of the Fraternal Order of Police over the administrative tactics of Police Chief Sal Vizzini. The feud is being flamed by several former city police officers, some of whom were fired from the city's employ for varying reasons.

The city manager chose the International Association of Police Chiefs to conduct the evaluation at a cost of $10,000 in December to "get to the truth" about the accusations flying between the

They call her 'Miss Barbara'

The kids at the Coral Gables Youth Center know she's there when they need her. She's an arbitrator of squabbles, the keeper of rules, the comforter of tears.

They come bounding into the room; full of healthy youth and the tireless energy that accompanies it. Rosy, chubby cheeks, bright-eyed faces full of wonder and mischief...some streaked with dirt or sweat. Smiles filled with all the carefree innocence that only children seem to possess.

They call her Miss Barbara . . . and when they need help, a game to learn, equipment to set up, a squabble to arbitrate, a shoulder to cry on, they come to her.

For the children and teens at the Coral Gables Youth Center, Barbara Bein is more than just a staff worker. Every afternoon she is there to greet them, by name, as they come leaping off the school bus.

First arriving are the first and second-graders from Carver, Merritt, Coral Gables and St. Theresa's. Next come the third through sixth-graders. Later come the teens. By 4 p.m., the center is overrun with children.

Children playing paddleball, children playing badminton, kickball, pool, arts and crafts. Little ones, chubby ones, noisy boisterous ones and quiet ones. Kids everywhere. And why not? The Youth Center offers just about every form of recreation their indefatigable bodies desire.

"Working here is different from teaching school where the children receive grades as an incentive," Miss Bein explains. "Here there are no grades, so you have to have some way to keep their interest. They have to have fun."

"Miss Barbara, can I skate today?" a child asks.

"Barbara, what's wrong with the jukebox?," another one asks. She goes over to look, and within seconds, the room is blaring with loud, teenage-style music.

"Barbara, they won't play with me. They don't like me," complains a sunburned-nose girl.

They come to her, all ages, all sizes, with all the earthshaking calamities kids face while trying to have fun.

"I am happy here," she says.

"I love my work and the kids," Miss Bein says softly. "I do for them, and in turn, they do for me. I enjoy what I am doing. Everyone needs to find out what they enjoy doing in life . . . it makes for a better world . . ."

In turn, they know she is there when they need her.

Miss Bein's main responsibility at the Youth Center is to run the teen room and keep charge of renting out all the recreational equipment to the youngsters.

But to the kids who know her, she is more than that. She is there every afternoon, Saturdays, school holidays.. "whenever the children are here," she explains.

"I work with kids of all different ages, and each one needs to be treated differently. The younger children sometimes need help with the games. The teens need to be guided to play fair, and learn the rules of the different sports," Miss Bein continues.

This week, she is assisting the teens in a badminton tournament, the special event of the week.

"I encourage young people to come here and play, and participate in all of the different activities, not just the ones they're good at," she says, while encouraging a reluctant teenage boy to participate in the badminton tournament.

But her journey there will teach the children something far greater than recreation, something they will carry with them long after their youth is gone . . . responsibility.

An automobile accident...a broken neck...paralysis from the shoulders down changed her plans...and forever changed her life.

That was 20 years ago.

As she recovered, Miss Bein began an internship at Veterans Hospital where she worked in physical and corrective therapy with the veterans, and earned the remaining credits necessary for her degree.

"It was a learning and teaching experience for me," Miss Bein recalls. "I learned not to feel sorry for myself. I saw that others around me were injured far worse than I was, and needed my help."

Miss Bein got her degree, and in 1959, came to work at the Coral Gables Youth Center. She has been there ever since.

"I love my work and the kids," Miss Bein says softly. "I do for them, and in turn, they do for me. I enjoy what I am doing. Everyone needs to find out what they enjoy doing in life and how they can contribute to those around them. It makes for a better world..."

Outside, noisy youngsters run and jump, yell and cheer, laugh and cry. The center is filled with noisy, happy confusion. Every minute or two, the kids vigorously storm into the room where Miss Bein is sitting in a wheelchair. "Barbara," one yells, "can we play kickball?"

Fate has it that she cannot run and jump or play kickball with them, as she once yearned to. Yet you sense she has traveled with them a distance far beyond what legs could run.

They know she is there when they need her.

Fired S. Miami policewoman reinstated before hearing

By EDWIN KNIGHT
Staff Writer

A City of South Miami policewoman, fired because she is physically unable to work, was reinstated unexpectedly Monday night, just minutes before a reinstatement hearing before the city's personnel board.

City Attorney Edward Moore announced to the board members that Ms. Alene Glass was to get her job back and keep it until she can be examined by an orthopedic surgeon who will determine whether her injuries are permanent.

The firing was the result of a request by the city for Ms. Glass, at city expense, to see an orthopedic specialist. Ms. Glass declined at the time, on advice of her attorney.

But she since has made an appointment, which is verified by a letter in her personnel file, which the city didn't know about and believes is reason enough for reinstatement.

"There is no need for the hearing," Moore told the board members. "Ms. Glass will be reinstated pending an examination by Dr. Marshall Hall, to determine the extent of her disability.

"She had an appointment with an orthopedic surgeon which the city manager didn't know about when she was terminated."

When she is reinstated, however, she will not be paid by the city, because she has gone back on workmen's compensation benefits until it can be determined whether she is permanently disabled.

Ms. Glass suffered neck and back injuries on Oct. 28, 1976, while she was driving a city police car to a call for police help.

She returned to work Dec. 8, at which time she lost her workmen's compensation. But a week later, she had a dizzy spell at home, fell and aggravated her previous injuries.

After Dec. 15, she was unable to work anymore and has not.

In December, the city asked her to see a specialist in neck and back injuries, and it was then that she refused on the advice of her attorney.

In February, however, she told the city by letter that she had made an appointment with the same doctor the city wanted her to see.

In March, the city terminated Ms. Glass, not aware of the February letter in her file.

No one could say Monday night how the letter got into her personnel file without the knowledge of City Manager Jack Present, to whom fell the job of firing her because she was no longer physically able to work.

According to city personnel rules, an employee unable to work must be terminated. If a person is injured while on city business, workmen's compensation takes over.

If an employee is permanently disabled while on city business, the employee will receive permanent workmen's compensation,

Janie Slone, 6731 SW 64th Ave., reported that an unknown person entered her house through a rear room while she was in another part of the house. The person removed two jalousies, she said, and was attempting to enter the home's central area when he was stopped by a heavy wire screen in front of a glass door.

Morris Glickman, 7835 SW 133rd St., reported the theft of a 17-inch television set and a coffee maker from Standard Mirror & Glass, 6104 South Dixie Highway, Thursday night, March 31. He said that the burglar gained entry to the store by prying screws loose from a rear door. Value of the television set and the coffee maker was estimated at $120.

Karen Walsh, 6420 SW 114th St., may have thought it was a warmer night than usual when a passing motorist in the 7100 block of Red Road pointed to the bottom of her car and told her it was on fire. South Miami police officers called for a Metro fire unit which quickly distinguished the fire believed to have been caused by faulty wiring. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

William Howard Lane, 5918 SW 63rd St., reported the breaking of the windshield on his 1969 Chrysler on March 29. He added that he knows of no reason for the criminal mischief. Value of the windshield was set at $100.

South Miami police reported April 1 the strong arm robbery of two juveniles by two other juveniles on SW 62nd Avenue.

Two boys stopped the two other boys and demanded the wallet and the watch from one of them. While one boy was handing over the wallet and the watch, the other ran, but was caught by the two several blocks away. They then took his money.

The two who committed the strong arm robbery were identified and taken into custody the same day. They later were released to their parents. The estimated $45 in items robbed was returned.

Coral Gables

Mary T. Richards, 41, of Pompano Beach, reported that a CB radio and $40 in cash were taken from her automobile parked at Steak and Burger Restaurant, 1150 S. Dixie Highway, on Friday, April 1. The driver side vent window had been pried open, police said.

Richard G. Abreu, 56, reported that sometime between March 26 and April 2, someone broke into his garage at 434 Castania Ave. and stole an electric yard edger valued at $60.

Robert M. Concha, 24, of 8721 SW 93rd Ct., reported that someone stole his luggage rack from the trunk of his car while it was parked in the University of Miami parking lot 452 on March 24.

Nancy Roche, 44, of 4181 Bonita Ave., reported that someone stole a CB radio valued at $150 from her car. Entrance was gained by prying open the right door of the car and the dashboard was damaged when the CB unit was removed.

West Dade

Shirley Slaughter, 12100 SW 41st Dr., reported seeing four juveniles on bicycles riding away with her staghorn fern Monday night. The plant, valued at $300, was stolen from a tree in her front yard.

A construction site at SW 78th Avenue and 22nd Street was burglarized over the weekend. Juelle Brothers, the contractors, reported that unknown persons stole an oxygen tank worth $90 and a bottle of Cetoline valued at $180.

Leonard Greenbaum, 9441 SW 31st Terr., said persons unknown removed four hanging plants from his porch. The plants, valued at $300, were stolen around midnight March 11.

William Erwin, 9360 SW 31st Terr., lost two hanging plants, valued at $90 to burglars. These plants were stolen March 11, a few minutes after midnight.

Pyramid Power

By KAY SEVERINSEN
Staff Writer

Dewey Cummings' office at 4017 SW 95th Ave., looks like any other office, except that there is a seven-foot aluminum pyramid in the middle of it.

Under the apex is a comfortable bean bag chair with a carton of Salsers nestled in it.

"It makes them taste better," says Cummings, manager of Pyramid House and Florida's principle distributor of pyramid products.

The power of pyramids has been touted in popular literature, newspaper and magazine articles in recent months. Whether they are effective or not, they are popular. Cummings has trouble keeping his large ones in stock.

Besides managing his business, Cummings lectures frequently on pyramid energy and gives demonstrations.

"I have a lot of fun with professors who insist that pyramid power isn't true," he says. "During one demonstration, I asked a professor who was a skeptic to sit in front of his class. He got wiped out, he was really spaced. The pyramid automatically makes the brain produce alpha waves (the waves produced during relaxation)."

Cummings says the pyramid makes it easier to pray, meditate, sleep or study. "A lot of people say it increases sensuality. They buy the large ones to put over their beds," he says.

"I used to sleep eight hours a night, now I only need four and a half hours," he adds. "I have two or three times the energy that I formerly had. I think it definitely improves the health, too, but I have to be very careful about that, not to get the Federal Drug Administration down my back. I never sell it as a prescription for anything."

Cummings says the reason pyramid energy has met with so much scorn is that many lies have been told about it. "There's a lot of phonies who just want to make a buck."

"No one wants to be the first to stick their neck out," he adds. "When Louis Pasteur first discovered bacteria, he was laughed at. So was Galileo. They were heretics, but they were right." Cummings admits that he doesn't know why pyramids work. "There's a lot about energy that we don't understand. Ask any scientist to define light. They really don't know what it is." To demonstrate the energy generated by the structure in his office, he holds two wire coat hangers, straightened into the shape of L's in front of the pyramid.

As he steps closer, the coat hangers spread wide apart, as though magnetically repelled. Call it a hoax, magic, science or the power of suggestion, when I tried it, they did the same thing. I swear I didn't move them. Who knows?

Dewey Cummings demonstrates the power of pyramids with two wire coat hangers.

Don't rain on their parade

We like the attitude of the West Miami Parade Committee.

West Miami began, back in 1967, a Memorial Day Parade which, over the years, grew to be the largest Memorial Day celebration in the state. But because of a belt tightening program the City of West Miami fathers felt this year that they could no longer donate funds toward the parade, their feeling being that the money could be better spent in some other area.

And then there were the rising costs of putting on parades in general.

So the parade committee said that maybe they'd have to do without some of the extras the parade has always had, but by George, they were going to have a parade.

Merchants will be asked to help and residents and the committee members and just about anyone else who doesn't want to see a tradition go down the drain.

So barring any unforeseen events, come May 30, there will be a West Miami Memorial Day Parade and an observance to honor the nation's war dead.

We'd like to urge the community to cooperate with the parade organizers for this event which brings so much positive publicity to West Miami.

2 plus 2 is ???

We now know why youngsters today don't have the regard for money that they should. They simply don't know how much change they should get from a $5 bill after making a purchase for $3.95.

Or so it would seem if results from a recently conducted test are accurate.

That the majority of high school juniors and seniors cannot perform even the simplest sixth grade math problems would seem almost a joke if it were not so serious.

We hope that as a result of this revealing test, the Dade County School Board will take a serious look at how basic math is taught so that the youngsters graduating from our schools stand a chance in the real world where adding, subtracting and multiplying are a necessity.

We shudder to think what would happen if one of these students should have to figure out an income tax return.

reader response

American kids should have language choice

(Editor's note: This is a copy of a letter sent to the principal of Rockway Elementary School.)

DEAR MRS. BELL:

The other day, I was waiting in the front office to talk to you, and I was very surprised, to hear and see what I saw.

Florida still belongs to the United States of America, the country in which we all live and make our decent living. Our children were born here so therefore they are Americans.

What I heard in your front office was all your Spanish teachers speaking nothing but Spanish. I felt that I was back in Cuba. The only time I realized we were in the United States of America, was when the National-Anthem was played, and you spoke over the loud speakers in English.

In which country are we living? Here in the United States or back in Cuba? Answer me, how do the American people feel about this matter? Their children are forced to learn Spanish. Why? They should have a choice of taking Spanish or any other language if they wish. After all this is their country.

Your Spanish teachers speak such bad English, with such heavy accents that I don't think they are qualified to teach my son or any other child English, because they don't pronounce the English language correctly, and you know how important it is to be able to pronounce the English language correctly. How can they teach the correct pronunciation, if they don't know themselves?

Have you asked your American parents how they feel about this matter? You would be very surprised to hear their answers.

I was born in Cuba. When I came here I made this my country to stay, for good. My children were born here, so therefore they are American, and their language is English. When I went to school here many years ago, we were not allowed to speak Spanish during school hours, so we could learn English. This did me good. What are your people trying to do, make another Cuba of Miami, hiring only Cuban teachers? Give the American teachers a better chance. I think they deserve a break. I think the children are going to be so confused that they don't know what they really are, Americans, or Cubans. Why not make it simple and make them all Americans, because that is what they are.

MRS. E. PEREZ

Candy chicks may be best for Easter

A fluffy chick in the hands of a small child may result in a cute Easter photo, but more often than not results in disaster for the chick. This is the opinion of a number of local people whose business involves the welfare of animals.

According to Ken McGovern of the Humane Society of Greater Miami, Eastertime always brings a large request for chicks, ducklings and bunnies, which well-meaning parents intend as playthings for small children.

"We always try to discourage this," he says, "unless people have the proper facilities for taking care of these small animals. Every year at this time people like to give out chicks and bunnies for business reasons, or as pets, and the animals seldom survive the mishandling."

Gladys Krebs, proprietress of Animal Lovers West, says she sells rabbits all year round, but the requests are particularly heavy during the Easter season. She also disapproves of selling them to families with small children, who cause unintentional harm to the pets, "although when they get a bit older the rabbits can usually defend themselves by kicking."

"It depends upon how responsible the parents are going to be," said a salesperson at Ray's Pet Shop in South Dade. "We warn the parents that the kids should be watched."

According to the Florida Veterinary Medical Association (FVMA), rabbits, chickens and ducks are farm animals and don't belong in the home. In addition to the problem of protecting these vulnerable creatures from overzealous children, the possibility of disease is also frequently overlooked.

Children and adults in close contact with these animals may be exposed to salmonellosis, a severe gastrointestinal infection which, while rarely fatal, sometimes requires hospitalization.

Election '77

Commissioners', mayor's posts up for grabs

Voters in the Coral Gables Bi-Ennial election on Tuesday, April 12, will elect two commissioners and a mayor.

But they should be aware that to elect the candidate of their choice to mayor they have to vote twice, except in one instance.

According to City of Coral Gables charter provisions, the mayor must also be elected commissioner, unless the candidate is a present commissioner with two years of his tenure left to serve.

Only one candidate for mayor, Bob Brake, is a present commissioner with two years left on his term. The other candidates for mayor must be one of three commissioners elected AND receive the largest number of votes for mayor.

Candidates for mayor and commissioner include: Jimmy Dunn, Albert Jacobson, Bruce Lehr and W. L. Philbrick.

Voters need only vote once for commission candidates, which include Bill Castle, Bill Chapman, Bill Kimbrough and Jack Philbrick.

Of the three commissioners elected, the two candidates receiving the most votes will serve four years. The third will serve two years. The mayoral term is two years.

If a mayor/commission candidate becomes mayor and also is one of two commissioners with a four year term, he may choose either to run for mayor again after his first term, or he may serve the remaining two years of his commission term.

Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Precinct voting locations are listed below:

Precincts No. 801 and 825, Coral Gables Country Club, 997 N. Greenway Dr.; Precinct No. 803, Central Christian Church, 222 Menores Ave.; Precinct No. 823, Coral Gables Lodge No. 260, 41 Valencia Ave.; Precinct No. 824, Boy Scout Hut Troop No. 7, 1107 S. Greenway Dr.; Precinct No. 826, All States

See POLLS, Page 39

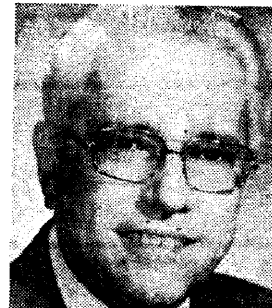

Four candidates battle for seat in tough mayor/commissioner race

Jimmy Dunn

Jimmy Dunn, 54, who was a Coral Gables municipal judge for 14 years until city courts were phased out Jan. 3, is a candidate for mayor and commissioner.

A fifty-year Dade County resident, Dunn has lived in Coral Gables for twenty years. An attorney, Dunn is a member of numerous bar associations. He was appointed by the Dade County Bar Association to the Economic Opportunity Legal Services, Inc., and also served as director of the Bar Association. He served on the City of Miami Building Board of Appeals and is past president of the Orange Bowl Committee. The Navy veteran is active in the Coral Gables Elks and Knights of Columbus.

Stressing that the zoning code is the most important document in city government, Dunn is in favor of strong zoning enforcement. In addition, he recommends an increase in parking facilities.

Dunn believes the Biltmore should be leased to private developers, though the ground floor and grand ballroom should be maintained as public areas.

Other issues on Dunn's platform include maintenance of the present tax millage, if possible, and strong support of incoming businesses.

Al Jacobson

Vice-mayor Al Jacobson, whose four-year term expires in April, is seeking election as mayor and commissioner.

Prior to his tenure on the commission, Jacobson served for 6 years on the Coral Gables Planning Board and on the Zoning Board. A past president of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce, he was also the recipient of the David H. Hendrick Outstanding Citizen Award of the Coral Gables Jaycees.

Voicing strong opposition to variances and zoning laws that allow high-rise building in Coral Gables, Jacobson rates himself an advocate of "green zoning", that is preservation of open spaces.

He thinks that crime is a big issue, and is in favor of increased crime-prevention activities by the police department, which he thinks should be closely ly watched by the commission.

Stressing that offers from private developers interested in the Biltmore should be looked into, Jacobson is also in favor of developing recreational facilities, including the tennis courts, locker facilities, and possibly the pool, which could be used for teaching school children to swim, he said. He said that making apartments out of the Tower building was not feasible.

One candidate running for mayor's seat only

Robert M. Brake, 50, whose term as commissioner does not expire until April, 1979, is a candidate for mayor.

A University of Michigan law school graduate, Brake has practiced in Coral Gables since 1952. He served as a Coral Gables Municipal judge in 1958 and is currently a hearing examiner for Dade County Personnel Appeals System.

A veteran of the Army in World War II and the Air Force in the Korean conflict, Brake is presently in the Air Force Reserves, holding the rank of Lt. Colonel.

He is currently vice president of the Dade County League of Cities and serves on numerous state and local committees.

A Metro Commissioner from 1962 to 1964, Brake also served in the Florida House of Representatives.

Brake cites the extensive costs of developing the Biltmore for apartment use, and also wiring and water problems which would have to be resolved for the building to meet zoning standards as impediments to city renovation of the building. However, he said, he did not think private businesses would be interested in leasing the Biltmore, either.

He is against Metro takeover of the police and fire departments, because he believes the county would expand service areas. He thinks the McManis report on the police department was generally accurate, and suggests changing patrol zones to correspond to the population shift.

A proponent of urban renewal, Brake said he would try to maintain the budget at its present level, and would increase taxes only to maintain service.

Bruce Lehr

University of Miami graduate Bruce Lehr, 22, is running for mayor and commissioner.

The former editor of the UM campus newspaper, "Hurricane," has worked professionally as a writer and photographer for local media. He was recently accepted to the University of Miami Law School.

Pledging to maintain an active status quo, if elected, Lehr is opposed to high-rise zoning, and advocates better street lighting in residential areas, and more facilities for the handicapped.

In addition, he is in favor of leaving the police and fire departments at

See LEHR, Page 39

W.L. Philbrick

Former Commissioner W.L. Philbrick, 76, owner of a local funeral home and chairman of the Committee to Save the Biltmore, is a candidate for mayor and commissioner.

A long-time Coral Gables resident, Philbrick is active in the Coral Gables Lions Club, Century Club of Coral Gables, Committee of 100, American Association of Retired Persons, Masonic Lodge, Mahi Shrine and Elks Clubs.

He believes that best use of the Biltmore would include: using the Tower lobby for a cultural center, instead of the Country Club building, which is leased to the Metropolitan Museum and Art Center; using the ground

See PHILBRICK, Page 39

Four more candidates run for commissioner seats

Castle

A twenty-year Coral Gables resident and retiree from the National Title Insurance Co., W.W. (Bill) Castle, 76, is seeking election to a commission seat.

Castle is past president and current member of the Coral Gables Apartment Association. An active member and two term past president of the People-to-People Program, he also belongs to Goodwill Ambassadors of Coral Gables, Council of International Visitors and the Rotary Club.

Maintaining that the Biltmore lease with the federal government specifically restricts use of the building to recreational and historical preservation uses, he nevertheless would like to see it become self-sustaining.

A strong proponent of maintaining current tax levels, Castle thinks the Coral Gables Police Department should remain at present manpower levels.

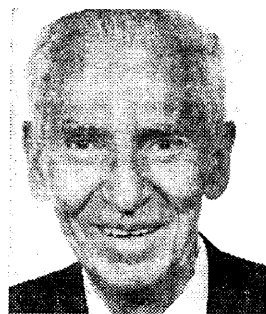

Chapman

Incumbent Bill Chapman, 57, is seeking reelection to the commission. He was elected to a two-year term in 1975 after being appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Rebyl Zain in 1973.

A resident of Coral Gables since 1948, Chapman is president of Chapman Insurance Underwriters, Inc. He is a member of the board of the Coral Gables Methodist Church and a founding chairman of Sign of the Fish Drug Rehabilitation program.

As former chairman of the Youth Advisory Board, Chapman thinks the city should strive to meet more of the recreational needs of the city, including those of senior citizens. He said that Coral Gables is below standard in the amount of open space for cities of comparable size and thinks zoning laws should reflect that concern.

Saying that he does not

think the public wants to support the Biltmore as a monument, he is in favor of private development in conjunction with increased recreational programs.

He is in favor of increased emphasis by city police and fire departments on prevention and educating the public.

Kimbrough

A 50-year Coral Gables resident, former Police Chief William Kimbrough, 69, is seeking election to the commission. The University of Miami graduate served as chief for 31 years, after working his way up through the ranks of the department.

Kimbrough is past president of the Florida and Dade County Chiefs of Police Association, and is the recipient of awards from the Kiwanis, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce and University of Miami for his service as police chief.

He expressed support for private enterprise to take over part of the Biltmore, as long as use was compatible with the surrounding area and some areas were reserved for recreation for the citizens of Coral Gables.

Expressing support for improper parking facilities, he also thinks zoning ordinances should keep a tight reign on high-rise buildings.

J. Philbrick

Former commissioner Jack Philbrick, 41, is campaigning for a four-year term as commissioner. The past president of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce, he was appointed to serve a one year term in 1970 when his father, W.L. Philbrick, resigned due to ill health.

An Army veteran, Phil-

brick is past president of the Coral Gables Jaycees and winner of the 1967 Jaycee Distinguished Service Awards. He is a member of the Rotary Club, the Sister City Program, Scottish rite, Mahi Shrine, the Ponce de Leon Association and currently serves as director of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami.

Philbrick, who says he is proud of his work as commissioner in solving the environmental problems associated with the Cocoplum development, is a firm supporter of high standards of planning and zoning.

"Hopefully, when the evaluation is complete and the report is made to me I can take such actions as are recommended in the report to better the police department," the city manager said in December.

Until the report is complete, in an effort to promote more harmony within city hall and the police department, the city manager asked city personnel not to discuss the police controversy with outsiders.

The consultants have a free rein to interview any employee of the city, including supervisory personnel, the police chief, the city manager and any other person they may deem helpful.

In addition, the consultants, who have been in South Miami on several occasions, have the authority to review all available documents and written materials that relate to the management and operation of the city's police department.

In regard to the area of morale, as brought out by the state attorney's office, the consultants will go into the present rules and regulations within the department, the matter of hiring and firing, disciplining and the promotion of officers, in addition to the effectiveness of the department's records and the manner of evaluating employees.

Hang-gliding

... the thrill of it all

By KAY SEVERINSEN
Staff Writer

Those magnificent men in their flying machines are back.

But they aren't sputtering around in biplanes, they're hang-gliding; floating and soaring over Biscayne Bay in colorful, 30-pound motorless "wings" that land on a dime.

Hang-gliding has grown tremendously in the last five years, but primarily in the mountainous states such as California. Only within the past year has a Floridian version of hang-gliding been developed.

Here, instead of leaping off cliffs and mountainsides, hang-gliders are towed to heights of 500 or more feet by boat, then released to soar as long as possible.

"The wing was developed by NASA as a space

"I trained a hawk to fly with me," says Lespinois. "He was one of my best teachers, but many times he out-maneuvered me."

re-entry vehicle," says Pierre Bonnescuelle de Lespinois, formerly a professional hang-glider pilot. "Now it's one of the fastest growing sports in America.

"It's a very consuming thing. Once you get the feeling, it never ceases. I've seen professional doctors and lawyers give up everything, just to fly. I did it too, but I went back to work."

Lespinois is a marine biologist for Ocean Learning Institute in Fort Lauderdale.

Together with about 10 other local pilots, he helped form the fledgling South Florida Hang-gliders Association, which meets just about every weekend on the Rickenbacker Causeway to soar around the bay.

Rich Henson, president of the club and a South Dade resident, says, "Most of our members have had an age-long dream of flying, but I never did. I got into it from water-skiing, where I used to do flat-kite sailing, being towed about 40 feet in the air behind a boat."

For Henson, hang-gliding is even more of a thrill because he is afraid of heights. "I was even scared on the little ferris wheel at the Dade County Youth Fair. But hang gliding is a very calm thing, although there are occasionally some tense moments.

"I used to look at hang-gliding as an extension of waterskiing. Now I think about the unforeseen forces. I've realized I'm not as good as I thought I was."

Accidents have greatly decreased in the past several years, says Lespinois. "The sport is so new, the lumps have been hard," he says. "But now the kite quality is much better controlled. And the risk is minimal compared to what you learn. I wouldn't fly if I thought I was going to get killed. The death rate has dropped completely."

One of the most dangerous things about flying is that it is so easy, says Ralph Linero, who sells and flies kites. "It's like learning to ride a bicycle." But because it's so easy, pilots can become entranced by the sensation of flying and lose control. Still, in a standard kite, a pilot has plenty of time to recover from a stall.

Lespinois has flown to heights of 17,000 feet and has remained aloft for over five hours. "When you are on the ground, birds will fly away from you," he says. "But when you are in the air, they figure you are one of them and sometimes they will soar with you."

"I trained a hawk to fly with me. I would feed him from the kite while on the ground and he would follow me. I learned a lot about soaring from him, he was one of my best teachers. But many times he would out-maneuver me."

Tandem flying — up, up and a-splash!

By KAY SEVERINSEN
Staff Writer

Suspended 250 feet in the air in a human kite is a hell of a place to discover you have height fright.

Fortunately, that feeling of imminent doom lasted only a split second. Hang-gliding was just too exciting to be frightening. I didn't even have time to wonder how in the world I had ended up at the end of a string, soaring like a child's kite over Biscayne

Bay.

I was the first "student" of the first experimental class in hang-gliding on the Rickenbacker Causeway.

Lespinois taught three other students and I the basics of hang-gliding, and then we waited for what seemed an interminable period of time.

Lespinois originally said he would take two flights first, with people who had flown tandem before, to work the bugs out, but suddenly he said, "Kay, let's go!"

Yikes! What happened to the test flights? I didn't ask because I didn't want him to think I was getting last minute jitters.

I donned a small helmet similar to a bicyclist's helmet and a huge life jacket. Lespinois did the same, then hooked the tiny swing inside the kite. We strapped ourselves in and mincingly made our way in under the kite to the water's edge. Like Siamese twins, joined at the hips, we now had to do everything together.

Suddenly, everyone seemed very nervous. The kite seemed to be leaping out of control and people were shouting.

All set? Yup, gulp. Let's go. The green flag flapped wildly and the boat took off. Lespinois had said to dig my feet in and resist the pull, but the kite lifted my weight off my feet and I couldn't do anything except tiptoe along. The kite pulled us — straight into the water. We submerged in one foot of water, then tried to get up while strapped to each other and to the kite. Bars and nylon ropes seemed to be everywhere, but we struggled to our feet, and minced our way back to shore.

Once again, the flag waved, the boat churned away, the shouts, the pull, we ran, we crashed. Splash!

Once again we struggled, swallowed salt water, and got back in position. All the while, curious onlookers were admiring our grace and skill. Many were snapping pictures of our crash landings. Little children were amazed.

"Third time's the charm," I muttered through mouthfuls of salt water. I didn't care if I drowned trying, I was determined to go up.

This time, they decided to try a different technique with the rope, giving us some slack. This would make our ascent more rapid, they said.

Resist, resist, I thought soggily. I was hanging on to the aluminum bar for dear life. The flag, the yank, the splash. I was sideways, half submerged, when suddenly, I felt Lespinois taking off.

Being as attached to him as I was, I was dragged along. Suddenly, we were aloft, first 10 feet, then 50, then 100 higher and higher.

I was saying such descriptive things as "Oh, Oh!" being rather shocked at going from under water to 100 feet in the air so quickly. Lespinois was saying, "We're all right" and other things I couldn't hear through the wind.

We could now see right through the water to the turtle grass and sand underneath. The bay suddenly looked very shallow.

Lespinois released our first rope and we kept ascending. Then the second rope; we were free. The wind died down. We went up a few moments longer and then began to sink slowly.

I barely had time to be disappointed that we weren't soaring and turning before we landed softly in the water.

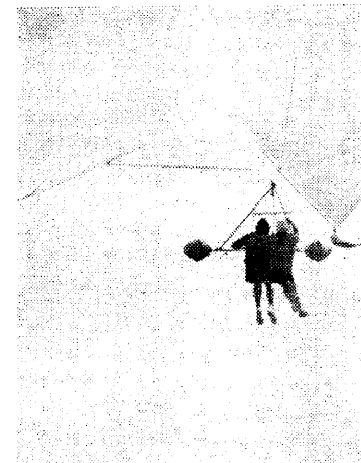

This was the part I had worried about, but I had no difficulty getting unhooked and away from the kite. Lespinois stayed with the kite, while I climbed aboard the boat.

They lifted the kite onto the bow of the boat and it was all over.

"My heart went in my throat when I saw your take-off," said the driver. "But I thought I should give you a chance to get up."

Fun in sun wasn't watered down as CG club members got in swim

The Country Club of Coral Gables Olympic pool was completely renovated, had a new shiny face put on it and became the focal point for a grand opening.

Being a Sunday, families, singles, couples all came out in shorts, Hawaiian shirts, swim suits and pant suits. The weather was beautiful and the sun entered the competition. Those who were tan got tanner and those who were pale got a rosey red. Banners and balloons flew everywhere. As old Sol went down, the buffet tables lit up and barbecued beef, ribs and chicken met their match as 300 hungry members and guests dined under the stars. Member participation in fun and games was at an all time high.

The Big Wheels in Motion, Ed Saunders, Owen Fabio, Ken Wittich and Dan Wick in tutus and flowers performed their water ballet to whistles and applause. The Swim and Trim girls did their thing, a demonstration on how they keep their slim figures. There was even an Interclub Water Volleyball tournament. There were swimming meets, mens, womens, mixed teams and a relay race. Fred Menke was captain of the winning mens' team and Bonnie Harrison was captain of the ladies team, both are members of the Tennis Group.

Cynthia Bruce, Sallie Thomas, Vine Darnian and Jim Cavanaugh were the winning relay team with Helen Wilson high scorer for the ladies meet and Jim Cavanaugh for the men. Pat and Ed Saunders son Richard racked up 13 consecutive points for best performance of the day overall. Dan Wick, Jr., pool manager, coordinated it all for a fabulous fun in the sun day.

'Sight and Sound'

"A Romantic Evening of Sight and Sound" will be coming your way April 30 at 7:30 at Beth David. Chairman of the Fine Arts committee Barbara (Mrs. Sanford) Cole has secured the appearance of brilliant New York pianist Bennett Lerner. Young Lerner debuted in Miami in 1969 and has since performed with the Boston Pops, at Lincoln Center and had a sensational debut in New York in 1976.

The sight part of the evening will be an Art Showing coordinated by Eugene Massin, featuring works by Henry Gordon, Arlene Florence, Binnie Green and Barry Massin. A preview luncheon was hosted by Lerner's sister Toby (Mrs. Edmund) Ansin at her Gables home. Tapes from his New York debut were played throughout the luncheon followed by a guided tour at Lowe Museum to see the Chaim Gross exhibit.

Working with Barbara is Roberta Shevin, patron chairman who has arranged a champagne party for patrons at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Lerner where they will meet the artists of "Sight and Sound."

Reaching out

There is a new club in town, Girls Clubs of Greater Miami, Inc. Similar to Boys Clubs, Girls Clubs was founded by citizens of Coconut Grove and greater Miami with their time and money to help girls age five to 18 with after school and summer activities.

Of course volunteers are needed and there will be courses in sewing, cooking, sports and crafts and tutoring in math and reading.

Lowe Art Museum opened its doors for a wine and cheese fundraising gala, a first. R.V. Walker, president of Financial Federal, Malcolm McNeill of McNeill and Son and the Plymouth Congregational Church have been among the first to reach out to Girls Clubs.

April in Paris

Coming up at Riviera Country Club April 15 is the "April in Paris" dinner dance. Hostess Judy Howard didn't have to go to gay Paree for the Follies Bergere dancers, she says Riviera has its own Can Can Girls.

Heading West

The Y.P.O. members are heading West at their April meeting, because "The Girl of the Golden West" is the scheduled opera and they must promote interest with music and menu. Randy Kathe and Joan Morrison have planned the chuck wagon luncheon.

Y.P.O.'s Girls of the Golden West committee include Joy Glass, Edie Klempeter, Helle Reid, Mimi Stieglitz and Jude West. Joan Elias will be the hostess and Michele Katz, talented concert pianist and composer will present a Mini Recital. Michele is the daughter of Herb and Debbie Levin. Young Patroness of the Opera president is Jackie Major.

THE DIET CORNER

Try diet dessert

By PHYLLIS SISKIN

Congratulations...

You've survived the hazards of the diet adventure. You've emerged from the jungle of high hopes and low calories slender. You've reached your goal. Now what?

Now you maintain. That means a change in the rhythm of your diet life. Your once-a-week trip to the scale increases to a once-a-day jaunt. Don't let that needle ounce up on you. Of little ounces are great pounds made. Little ounces disappear easily; great pounds must be routed out.

Now you apply the scientific method to the problem of eating. You investigate your variables. Your basic program of eating remains very much what it was when you were fighting the battle of the bulge. Now that the battle's over, the holding action begins.

Add a bit to your daily program; you'll find out if the enemy has probed your weakness by an advance in the scale needle. When that happens, you omit the $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice you substituted for a vegetable at dinner and return to the vegetable.

Fate is kind. When you changed your eating habits, your tastes may have taken a turn, too. Many of the things that once appealed to you will now turn you off. That's all to the good. If that hasn't happened, then you'll have to substitute to satiate. I can't think of a simpler, safer way than this:

Frozen Chocolate Bar

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup crushed pineapple, packed in its own juice, drained

1 envelope Alka 77 chocolate (dry powdered skim milk)

Mix ingredients together. Make up a tin foil pan the size of a large chocolate bar. Pour ingredients into pan and freeze. When frozen, break into chunks. VOILA! Your own candy bar. Delicious and not fattening. Try it you'll like it.

If you have a craving for sweets, try some of our diet desserts. Send a large self-addressed stamped envelope to SWEET REWARDS, P.O. Box 580, Coral Gables, Fl. 33134.

FOOD

Easter dinner:

Enjoy it without worrying about your weight

Parading down the avenue in one's Easter finery can add zest to the appetite. Weight Watchers members, however, can enjoy the parade and then a traditional Easter dinner without worrying what the scale will show the day after.

Using some of the new foods now found in the new Weight Watchers eating plan, a delectable holiday dinner has been created. The Easter dinner appeals not only to the gourmet but to the weight and nutrition conscious as well.

Carrot Bisque

- 3 cups diced carrots
- 3 ounces onion, diced
- 6 packets instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
- 4 cups water
- 1 bay leaf
- Dash nutmeg or to taste
- 1 cup evaporated skimmed milk

In a 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ quart saucepan combine carrots, onion and broth mix. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally for five minutes or until onions are transparent. Add water and bay leaf. Cover and simmer $\frac{1}{2}$ hour or until carrots are very soft. Remove bay leaf. Transfer to blender container; process until smooth. It will probably be necessary to do this in two operations. Return to saucepan, add nutmeg. Bring to boil. Remove from heat.

Stir in milk. Reheat, but do not boil. Divide evenly. Makes six servings.

Each serving is equivalent to: $\frac{1}{2}$ cup carrots, $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce limited vegetables, 1 serving something extra, 2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons evaporated skimmed milk.

Roast Cornish Hens

With Spiced Cherry Sauce

- 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups partially thawed, frozen pitted sweet cherries
- 3 (1- $\frac{1}{4}$ pounds each) Cornish hens
- Salt, white pepper, garlic powder and paprika
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup chicken bouillon
- $\frac{3}{4}$ cup black-cherry flavored dietetic soda
- Artificial sweetener to equal 2 teaspoons sugar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cinnamon stick
- $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 clove
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Set cherries aside to thaw. Sprinkle hens with salt, pepper, garlic powder and paprika. Place on a rack in roasting pan and roast at 350 degrees for $\frac{1}{2}$ hour or until done. Baste occasionally with bouillon.

While hens are roasting, combine juice from cherries, soda, sweetener, cinnamon, lemon juice and clove in a medium saucepan. Sprinkle cornstarch over liquid and stir to dissolve. Place over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add cherries.

Stir until coated with sauce and thoroughly heated.

To serve, cut hens in half and remove skin. Place each half on a dinner plate and top with $\frac{1}{4}$ of the cherry sauce. Makes six servings.

Each serving is equivalent to: $\frac{1}{2}$ serving fruit, 6 ounces poultry, $\frac{3}{4}$ serving something extra.

Asparagus Holi-Daise

- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
- 1 packet instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup imitation (or diet) margarine
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- Dash hot sauce
- 30 cooked asparagus spears

In a small saucepan, dissolve cornstarch in water. Add broth mix. Stir over medium heat until thickened. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine until melted. Add mayonnaise; stir until blended. Add lemon juice and hot sauce; stir to combine. Serve over hot asparagus. Divide evenly. Makes six servings.

Each serving is equivalent to: $\frac{3}{4}$ serving something extra, 2 servings fat, 5 asparagus spears.

Curried Apple Noodles

With Prunes

- 2 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced

- 2 tablespoons imitation (or diet) margarine
- 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ ounces onion, minced
- $\frac{3}{4}$ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 packet instant chicken broth and seasoning mix
- Artificial sweetener to equal 2 teaspoons sugar
- 3 cups cooked enriched noodles
- 4 medium pitted, dried prunes, chopped

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Combine all ingredients except noodles and prunes in 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ quart oven-proof casserole. Cover; bake for 20 to 25 minutes. Remove from oven; reduce heat to 375 degrees. Stir noodles and prunes into apple mixture. Cover; bake for 15 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Divide evenly. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving is equivalent to: $\frac{1}{2}$ serving fruit, $\frac{1}{2}$ serving fat, $\frac{1}{4}$ ounce limited vegetable, $\frac{1}{8}$ serving something extra, 1 serving choice group.

Tossed Green Salad with Creamy Yogurt Dressing

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup plain yogurt
- 1 canned medium tomato, drained and chopped
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1 small garlic clove, minced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in a bowl. Mix well. Toss with salad.

See EASTER, Page 18/27

Can a holiday dinner that looks as good as this really taste good and not be fattening? This Easter dinner appeals not only to the gourmet but to the weight and nutrition conscious as well.

Egg are traditional to Easter menu

Eggs have long been a part of the Easter tradition in many parts of the world and it is fitting that they be included in this Easter brunch menu as a symbol of new life.

Smoked Salmon Quiche Shell

One and three quarters cup flour
One stick butter
chilled
Three tablespoons chilled shortening
Half an egg
Iced water, about six tablespoons Pinch sugar and half teaspoon salt

gourmet goodies marion richy

Rub butter and shortening through flour until it resembles cornmeal then mix egg and iced water and add a tablespoon at a time to flour mixture until mixture sticks together but is not too moist. Shape into a ball and chill two hours, roll out and bake in a quiche pan with a removable fluted ring. Bake 15 minutes in a 425 degree oven.

Filling
One cup minced smoked salmon
Two tablespoons very finely chopped onion
Three eggs
One and a half cups heavy cream
Pinch salt and fresh ground black pepper
Chopped parsley
Blend together all ingredients, except the parsley.

Cold Ham Souffle

Soften one packet of Knox unflavored gelatin in quarter cup of water and stir into one cup bechamel sauce, stir until well-blended then set aside to cool. When just cool stir in one cup of minced ham, and fold into one and a half cups of whipped cream. Pour into serving dish and chill two hours.

Easter

- Dash white pepper
- 4 cups iceberg lettuce, torn into bite-size pieces
- 2 cups chlicory, torn into bite-size pieces
- In a small bowl, combine yogurt, tomato, mayonnaise, garlic, salt and pepper. Place greens in a large salad bowl. Pour dressing over greens. Toss. Divide evenly. Makes six servings.
- Each serving is equivalent to 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon yogurt, 1/6 tomato, 1/2 serving fat, 1 cup lettuce.

Minted Lime Treat

- 2-1/2 cups canned crushed pineapple, no sugar added
- 3/4 cup canned mandarin orange sections, no sugar added
- 1 envelope lime-flavored gelatin, low calorie
- 1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons whipped topping, low calorie
- Dash peppermint extract or to taste
- 6 mint sprigs
- Drain pineapple and orange sections, and combine juices. Str fruit aside. Add 3/4 cup boiling water to contents of envelope of lime-flavored low calorie gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add enough cold water to combined fruit juices to make 1 cup and add to gelatin mixture. Chill until syrupy. Fold in pineapple; chill until set. Beat mixture; fold in topping and extract. Divide evenly. Garnish with orange sections, evenly divided, and mint. Makes six servings.
- Each serving is equivalent to 1 serving fruit, 1/2 cup gelatin, 1 tablespoon whipped topping.

Sunrise services, recitals are part of Easter festival

April 10 is Easter Sunday, the Christian celebration commemorating Christ's resurrection. Churches around South Dade will be holding ceremonies honoring the highest holy day of the Easter season.

Palmetto Community Covenant Church, 10300 SW 162nd St., will hold a special service on Good Friday, April 8 at 8 p.m. with music by the choir. There will also be an Easter Sunrise Service at 5:55 a.m. at the Dixie Drive-in with a sermon on "The Power of the Resurrection."

South Miami Lutheran Church, 7190 Sunset Dr., has the following services planned for Holy Week:

On Maundy Thursday, April 7, a worship service with Holy Communion begins at 7:30 p.m. with special music by the Chancel Choir. On Good Friday, April 8, a service for children of the church and community will be held in the main sanctuary. The message-music has been designed to meet the needs of boys and girls below the eighth grade, and at 7:30 p.m. the Seventh Word of Christ from the Cross will be emphasized by means of chancel drama and meditation.

An Easter Sunrise Service will be held at 6:30 a.m. in the garden courtyard, with other Easter services being held at 9 and 10:30 a.m.

A breakfast following the sunrise service will be held in Fellowship Hall from 7:45 to 8:30 a.m.

Saint Philip's Episcopal Church, Coral Way at Columbus Boulevard, Coral Gables, the Eucharist will be celebrated at 8 a.m. on Easter Sunday. There will be the lighting of the Paschal Candle, and at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. The music will include a "Concerto for Two Violins" by Bach, with Alexander Saldarriaga and Antonio Perez, violinists, joining Mark Schuchman, organist and choir director, as the prelude. The choir will sing the final chorus from Handel's Messiah "Worthy is the Lamb."

Plymouth Congregational Church, 3429 Devon Rd., will hold a special service honoring Maundy Thursday on April 7 at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary. Plymouth's Good Friday service will be held in the sanctuary Friday, April 8 at 12:15 p.m. Special music will be performed.

An Easter Sunrise Service will be held at 6 a.m. in the Cloister Garden. Dr. Thomas W. Phillips will speak on "In the Son's Light."

Coral Gables Congregational Church, 3010 DeSoto Blvd., Coral Gables, will hold Maundy Thursday worship on April 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Easter worship will be at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Services will include Communion and "The Ritual of the Nail."

Saint Thomas Episcopal Church, 5590 N. Kendall Dr., has Holy Week services scheduled as follows:

On Maundy Thursday, April 7, at 7 and 11:30 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m., Holy Communion will be served in the Chapel. Beginning at 9 p.m. and continuing until 7 a.m. the next morning, a watch will be kept before the Sacrament in the Chapel. Good Friday services will be held at 7 and 11:30 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

The Vigil of Easter will be observed Holy Saturday at 6 p.m. The Vigil begins with the lighting of the Paschal Candle.

Easter services will be held at 8, 9 and 11:15 a.m.

First United Methodist Church of South Miami, U.S. 1 at Red Road, will hold two Easter Services. One service will be at 8 a.m. in addition to the regular 10:30 a.m. service.

"Our Easter Certainty" will be the topic for the Easter message by Rev. John F. Few. Special music will be performed at both services by mezzo-soprano Joy Davidson, the Chancel Choir, and the Children's Choir.

Noah's Ark

"In Search of Noah's Ark" will be the subject of a sermon by Rabbi Herbert M. Baumgard, spiritual leader of Temple Beth Am, 5950 N. Kendall Dr., on Friday, April 8 at 8:30 p.m.

Survival

Dr. Bernard Shechterman, Associate Professor of Politics and Public Affairs at the University of Miami, will be the guest speaker at Temple Zion's Friday evening services, April 15 at 8:15 p.m.

Dr. Shechterman will speak on "The Politics of Survival."

Temple Zion is located at 8000 Miller Rd.

Her love of fixing up homes shows here

By DOROTHY STEIN

June Goldstein is not equivocal about her favorite colors. Every inch of her beautiful Coral Gables apartment—from the entrance hallway to the bedroom walk-in closet, and everything in between—is decorated in black, white and bright yellow.

"I can only live with those colors," says June, a sunny blonde who blends in well with the decor of her eighth floor apartment on Biltmore Way. "I had decorated my townhouse in black, white and brown, with just a few accents in yellow, and I found that I most depressed and used to seek out the rooms that had the most yellow."

There's nothing depressing about June and Stanley's present abode, which looks as if it were meticulously planned by a decorator, but which June says was hastily put together by her during a weekend visit from Atlanta last September.

"I don't like having cartons lying around," she says, "so I just bought whatever we needed in a few days, and that was that...and now I'm ready to move again," she adds facetiously, not because she isn't happy here, but "because I love fixing up homes."

In a home so full of fine furnishings, art and travel mementos, it's ironic that the first and most noticeable feature is the view. In fact, though the kitchen was intended to include a breakfast nook, June decided she'd prefer to have her coffee overlooking the Granada Golf Course rather than the refrigerator, so she moved her bright yellow Parsons table into a corner of the living room, where it leads a double life as a card table at the Goldsteins' frequent bridge games.

Looking beyond the golf course and the northern part of the Gables, the airport is clearly visible. As a member of the Board of Directors of Laventhol and Horwath, an international accounting firm with offices throughout the world, Stanley travels frequently, with June, to exotic parts of the world. But on those occasions when his destination doesn't entice her, June says she enjoys the view from the balcony of Stanley's planes taking off and landing.

The furnishings, in June's words, are "a conglomeration of His and Hers," with the only requirement that they both like everything. "It just doesn't matter to me what period a thing is from, because every period has a beauty of its own," she says.

A cheerful yellow wall in the living room is cov-

Miami Christian class plans 15-year reunion

Alumni from the Class of 1962 of Miami Christian School can bring spouses and children along to a reunion on Friday, May 6 in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Paul Rose, 15700 SW 87th Ave.

The 15-year reunion will feature a buffet dinner, followed by the Spring Concert of the 48-voice Senior High Choir from Miami Christian School. The concert will be held at 8 p.m. at First Baptist Church of South Miami, 6767 Sunset Dr.

For reservations contact Dave Morrison at 221-7554 during the day or 223-2846, evenings.

Learn Hebrew

Comprehensive courses in conversational Hebrew will be offered at Temple Beth Am and Palmetto Senior High School, starting April 25.

The Southwest Miami High Adult Education Center will offer a course at Temple Beth Am on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 to 6 p.m.

The class will meet at Palmetto Senior High Adult Education Center on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m.

Registration fee is $5 for either course, except for senior citizens, who may participate free. Admission is open to anyone 16 years and older. Two courses of study are offered, one for beginners and one for intermediate students. Upon completion of the course, students will receive high school foreign language credit. For further information call the Southwest Adult Education Center at 274-0181 or the Palmetto center at 235-1360, after 2 p.m. weekdays.

Volunteer program

Delegates from the School Volunteer Program, 2121 Ponce de Leon Blvd., attended a National School Volunteer Program conference in New Orleans from April 3 through 6.

Audrey Jackson, director of the Dade program, presided over the conference. Other Dade delegates included Nancy Cooper, Gina Craig, Mona Goldstein, Joey Bullock, Theima Greene, Dee Zell, Dovie Nichols, Ann Saloman and Georgann Crudup.

Blacks honored

The University of Miami chapter Alpha Phi Alpha, the oldest black fraternity, honored seven outstanding black Miami students at a banquet in the Hurricane Cafeteria on Friday, April 1, as part of Black Culture Week.

Those honored were George Knox, City of Miami attorney; Mrs. Anna Price, director of the Upward Bound project at UM; County Judge Wilkie Ferguson; State Representative Newton Cherry; Miami Herald reporter Bea Hines; WTVJ-Channel 4 reporter C.T. Taylor, and Dr. Samuel Gay, a dentist.

UM student awarded scholarship

Edgar Gentle, a University of Miami graduate student, has been awarded one of the 32 prestigious Rhodes Scholarships that are given annually in the United States for study at Oxford University in England.

Gentle, a 1977 candidate for the degree of master of science in biological oceanography, will read for the Honors Bachelor of Arts degree in jurisprudence next year at Oxford.

Good acting, directing, are strong points in 'Two for the Seesaw'

By KAY SEVERINSEN
Entertainment Writer

If you miss William Gibson's "Two For the Seesaw," sponsored by the Players' Repertory Theatre, well, you just didn't have a very good excuse.

Characterized by a warmly funny plot, tight directing and excellent acting, "Seesaw" portrays the romance between two losers who meet at a New York City party.

Sarah Nall is great as Gittel, a dancer who never was, who supports herself by making costumes and collecting unemployment.

Len Kadlubowsky is very good as Jerry, an attorney from Omaha, whose wife is divorcing him. Sick of taking hand-outs from his wife's influential father, Jerry makes heartwarming and humorous attempts to stand on his own two feet. He is torn between Gittel, who seems independent of call him, and so on.

The double set, designed by Michael Martin, makes this very effective. Jerry's apartment is on one side of the stage; Gittel's is on the other.

Ms. Nall, a graduate of Northwestern University, has appeared in several Players performances, including "Beautiful People," "U.S.A.," "Blithe Spirit," "Arms and the Man" and "The Immortals."

"Seesaw" is characterized by a warmly funny plot, tight directing and excellent acting.

him, and his wife, who is having a change of heart.

There are several excellent scenes involving telephone calls, Jerry calls Gittel, whose line is busy because she is trying to

Len Kadlubowsky and Sarah Nall star in "Two for the Seesaw"

Kadlubowsky has performed in summer stock theatres in Buffalo, San Francisco and Utah. He has won three theatrical scholarships, three best acting awards and several directing awards. He has appeared locally in "The Chocolate Soldier," "Arms and the Man," and "The Immortals."

Directed by Robert Lowery, "Seesaw" continues at the Museum of Science through April 24. For reservations, call 854-0945.

CRUISE TO THE BAHAMAS ON THE T/S FLAVIA

You can feel the foreign flavor as you glide into port... native boys diving for coins... fishermen mending their nets... the portside market where exotic fruit and fish are being hawked... tourists from all over the world haggling over the price of a straw hat... and through it all the stirring beat of the goombay as it pulses through the tropic night. You'll see uninhibited native entertainment, visit world famous Paradise Beach where the water is so clear and the sand so pink and powdery it's indescribable. Nassau is at once refreshing, unusual, relaxing, exciting and exotic.

In Freeport, experience the excitement of El Casino and enjoy the dazzling shops of the International Bazaar... but getting there... here's where your dreams come true.

In celebration of Fidelity National Travel Bureau's tenth anniversary a complimentary ticket aboard the T/S Flavia will be given to one lucky person whose name is drawn from those registering at the Travel Bureau prior to the drawing date of May 6th, 1977.

The complimentary ticket is non-transferrable, has no cash value. The complimentary ticket will be given with the understanding that there will be a second person accompanying the winner. Dining Out

The City of Coral Gables has always had a reputation for its charm and beauty, its sophisticated, continental style. Well, the City Beautiful now has another feather in its cap with the opening of Les Beaux Arts Restaurant on Ponce de Leon Boulevard.

Every aspect of your visit to Les Beaux Arts Restaurant will be a delightful experience. The ambience and charm of the restaurant is such that you will be as comfortable in a pair of jeans as you would be wearing a tuxedo. Considering the fact that the owner-managership is the same as the critically acclaimed La Boheme Restaurant in Miami, the odds are good that it won't be long before it will be difficult to get a reservation at Les Beaux Arts.

The greatest reason for its popularity is, of course, the cuisine prepared by chef-owner Patrick Jourdan. These are just a few of the items from the large menu: warm pate of trout cooked in a delicate crust, truffles soup. Dover sole stuffed with lobster mousse and served with a light lobster sauce, filet mignon with a rich marrow and Chambertin sauce, fresh calf liver delicately prepared with an elegant grape sauce. Such food, combined with the superb cocktails and wines available, is enough to entice and please any appetite.

We suggest that you call 446-5390 for reservations and make a visit to 3101 Ponce de Leon Blvd. (between Bird Road and Miracle Mile). If you can't get to Paris this week, Les Beaux Arts is the next best thing.

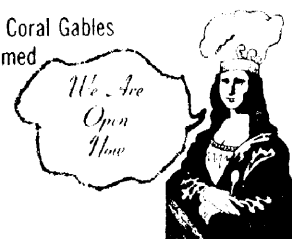

A new Gourmet experience has come to Coral Gables Built in the tradition of the highly acclaimed La Boheme of Miami. Join Chef owner Patrick Jourdan for:

Chilled Souffle of Duck
Watercress and Avocado Soup
Fresh Maine Lobster
Lamb Chops Provencale

Latin American exhibit opens new FIU art gallery

Florida International University's new Fine Arts Gallery will open Saturday, April 16 with a major exhibition of contemporary Latin American drawings entitled "Lines of Vision: Recent Latin American Drawings."

The exhibition, on loan from public and private collections in South America, Mexico, the U.S. and Europe, will run through May 14 in the Gallery, according to James Couper, Chairman of the Fine Arts Department and Gallery Director. The exhibition is being sponsored by the Student Government Association.

The majority of the drawings are figurative, for the most part, but many abstract artists are also represented. The show, which contains 100 works of art from recognized masters as well as other cosmopolitan but less frequently circulated talents was assembled by the noted Latin American art consultant, Barbara Duncan, through the International Exhibitions Foundation in Washington, D.C.

On exhibit with the Latin drawings will be a group of ten drawings by the Colombian artist, Miguel Rojas Nino. His drawings are a gift to the permanent collection of the University from the Daro Dawidowicz Foundation.

Man arrested and charged with drugstore burglary

Coral Gables Police responding, early Sunday morning to a burglar alarm at Gray's Drugs, 1200 S. Dixie Highway, arrested a 21-year-old man on charges of burglary after they found him hiding in a tree more than a block from the drugstore.

James Duncan, who gave no address, was charged with loitering and prowling, giving false information to police officers, burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Police officers W.J. Vance and D.G. Smith made a routine check of the drug store in response to the burglar alarm and found no signs of forced entry and could detect nothing missing. They then surveyed the roof area and found a roof vent pried open.

After searching the immediate neighborhood, they found the suspect in a tree, with a hacksaw and a pick axe in his possession.

Duncan was transferred to Dade County Jail.

S. Dade resident found drowned in local canal

An 83-year-old South Dade man who was reported missing by his son on Wednesday, March 30, was found dead in the Coral Gables waterway on Thursday, March 31.

Julius Andrew Folse, of 3617 SW 25th Terr., apparently slipped into the canal and drowned, though autopsy reports have not been released.

There were no visible signs of injury, police said.

He was last seen in the area of Doctor's Hospital late Wednesday afternoon. Scott Connell and Manuel Perez, two employees of a company hired to widen a bridge over the waterway, discovered the body and called Coral Gables Police.

Philbrick is opposed to junket trips by officeholders and to special meetings, unless called in an emergency. He proposes town hall meetings at City Hall every other Tuesday preceeding the regular commission meeting.

In addition, he favors increased parking and recreational facilities, and the transfer of the city Community Development office to the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce.

Winning Team

South Miami's under-10 soccer team finished its season last week by capturing a divisional crown. South Miami had three teams entered in the Dade Youth Soccer Association. The under-10 team went undefeated to take the divisional championship. They are from left to right:
Bottom row — Herman Baptiste, Patrick

Turley,*Richie Goff, Steve Wooten, LaMar Wright, Manuel Messa, Dino Petrakis and Nabil Tamer.

Top row — Dennis Thomas, Randy Burch, John Meltzer, Heywood Joseph, Jean Paul Roatta, Peter McCann, Scott Turk, Danny Reyes and Steve Park.

Cavalier nine topple Columbus in best week

By STEVE DAVIDSON
Correspondent

The Coral Gables High School Athletic Program enjoyed a pleasant surprise and suffered a major disappointment over the past week. The baseball team managed to post a weekly winning record for the first time this season, but the tennis team unexpectedly dropped two matches.

The baseball team began the week by beating North Miami 9-5 behind a four run rally in the last inning. They then dropped a 3-2 decision to Killian. Backed by Cesar Ceballos's three doubles and two runs batted in, the team defeated Columbus, previously ranked in the top 10 in the state, by a score of 5-3. The win raised the team's record to 5-9.

Both the boys' and girls' tennis teams lost to Palmetto 6-0 and 7-0 respectively. The biggest surprise, however, was when both teams lost by scores of 5-2 to Miami Beach.

Boys', girls' tennis teams lose to Palmetto and Miami Beach. Golfer John Pallot wins three straight medals.

These defeats lowered the boys' record to 5-4, while the girls fell to 7-2.

The golf team continued to win as it went to 2-1 over the week. They defeated South Miami 4½ to ½, lost to Miami Lakes 3-2 and defeated Miami Beach 4½ to ½. John Pallot was the medalist in all three matches with two one-over-par scores and one even-par score.

The girls' softball team continued to be plagued with too many errors and inexperience, as they played to a 1-2 record during the week. They lost to South Miami 21-1 as they gave up 31 hits, but bounced back to beat Miami High 13-12 behind Carol Hubbel's game-winning home run. They lost to Coral Park, in a low scoring game, 4-1.

The track team had a very good week by winning a dual meet and coming in ninth in the G.M.A.C. meet. They beat Miami Beach, 68-64, as Bob Anderson won the half mile run and Henry Oranus won the discus. In the G.M.A.C. meet, the Cavaliers came in ninth behind the first place finish of Gardo Gomez in the pole vault, with a leap of 13 feet. Oramus placed third in the discus with a throw of 151 feet and Anderson came in second in the half mile with a time of one minute and 58 seconds.

Both the boys' and girls' gymnastics teams lost to defending G.M.A.C. champion Hialeah-Miami Lakes for one of their rare defeats. The boys lost by a score of 140.74113.17 while the girls lost 98.97-113.17.

WM Jaycees surprise all, win tourney

The newly chartered West Miami Jaycees surprised most people by taking first place in the Second Annual Coral Gables Softball Invitational Tournament played last weekend at the University of Miami intramural fields.

The Coral Gables Jaycees, which hosted the tournament, entered two teams in the event. Their

No. 1 team came in second.

Besides the West Miami Jaycees and the two Gables Jaycee teams, the Coral Gables Fire Department, Police Department and Rotary Club had teams entered in the tournament.

Trophies and awards to the winners will be presented at a Coral Gables Jaycee meeting, which will be announced later.

Tennis lessons for beginners offered

Tennis lessons for beginners, advanced beginners and intermediates will be offered at Tamiami Tennis Center, SW 112 Avenue and Coral Way.

Classes will begin the week of April 11 with classes offered at 11 a.m.-1 p.m., 1 p.m.-3 p.m. or 7 p.m.-9 p.m. depending on the level of instruction.

A special class for teenagers, 12-15 years old will be held Saturdays, 1 p.m.-3 p.m. beginning April 16.

Open registration will take place at the Tennis Center April 4-April 8.

The classes are limited to 12 adults or teenagers, male and female. Registration fee is $12.60, which includes one new can of tennis balls and five two hour sessions.

For more information call Brad Gessner at 223-7076.

Bridge bids now open

Bids for construction of a pedestrian bridge over a canal at SW 200th Street and 103rd Avenue are now being accepted by the Dade County Board of Commissioners. Bids must be turned in by 1 p.m., April 13, in sealed envelopes. The work will be awarded to the lowest bidder.

According to Joaquin Urrechaga, structural engineer for the county Public Works Department, the structure will have four points of support with double "t" beams spanning from one point to the next.

The project will be paid through tax revenue, collected in the capital outlay reserve, Urrechaga said.

Bidders to date are the Ebsary Foundation Company, 2154 NW North River Dr., and D.M.P. Corporation, 10477 SW 186th Ln.
